Will Exhorts Towns To Paint Name For Fliers

(Special To The News)

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Sept. 4.—They are having the air races out here next week with planes coming from all over America, so get your town marked with its name so an aviator can tell where you are, even if nobody else knows.

And get you a flying field even if you have to trade your Chamber of Commerce for it, and paint your name, even if you have to trade your Rotarys, Kiwanises, Lions, Tigers, Tadpoles, Civitans, Junior Apes or any other organized form of eating for the paint to do it with.

So Babe wouldn't meet Hoover? Maybe he thought it was some new pitcher they was bringing into the league.

See where Straton got more votes for Al Smith again yesterday.

Yours,
WILL.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Pa Newc Observes—women asking questions as to who those men were with the green and red strings about their necks while the regiment was here—A man who forgot about the time change Sunday and started to church an hour early—two girls bumming a ride out the Slippery Rock road—that women going down Washington street in knickers fail to attract attention any more—that traffic yesterday was the heaviest of any day for a long time.

Speaking of traffic, Pa Newc was on the Lakes to Sea highway yesterday. There was very little traffic coming east from Du Bois until one got to Franklin. Driving toward Polk, traffic thickened and when the scene of the Stoneboro Fair was reached it was almost impossible to get through.

Well, the 332nd regiment reunion is over. The spaghetti dinner served Sunday was the closing whistle for the affair and if you like spaghetti you should have been there. There was enough to eat and enough fun for seventeen regiments instead of seventeen companies!

Today, every one is an hour later than they were last week, yet things seems to be going along all right. When one is on eastern standard you like it, and after you change, you hate to go back to it. Pa Newc observes that humans don't like to change their ways.

Boys of the New Castle High school have returned from a hard grill out at football camp for the past while and are in trim to start in with their school work. Prospects for the coming season are good and New Castle fans may expect some great games by the home team.

Speaking of football reminds Pa Newc, that Westminster, New Castle's college, started their training camp yesterday. There are 40 fellows from the entire eastern section of the United States fighting for berths on the scrappy little United Presbyterian team. Some wonderful football games happen up in the field in the little college town each year.

Yesterday, the Saints Phillip and James Polish Catholic church was dedicated in the city. It is a beautiful church and one that New Castle can be justly proud of. If you want to see what a determined congregation can do take a look at this church. The members and Father Stanceleswki did the work and furnished much of the materials first hand.

Pa Newc talked to no less than a dozen first rate salesmen over the week-end. They all reported business was getting better through the country. These men are working large eastern territories and know the conditions of the various sections. Salesmen should know.

Tomorrow, Cortelyeu Glass, New Castle lad, will start to swim 15 miles. He will be in the big international swim at Toronto, Can., and Pa Newc is betting that he will show up. This is his first race and he is hoping to get the hang of things if he doesn't

Republicans Plan For Number Of Addresses In New York City

GENERAL MOTORS HEAD FOR HOOVER

G. O. P. Elated At Developments—Hughes Important Political Figure

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Republican presidential forces in New York are elated today following the cabled offer of Charles Evans Hughes to take the stump for Herbert Hoover and the endorsement of the Hoover candidacy by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors Corporation.

An itinerary will be arranged for Hughes, to include several addresses in New York for which there is expected to be a wide radio hookup.

Hughes has been an important figure in New York politics since he was elected governor in 1907. In his race for the presidency in 1916 he carried the East, including his own state.

Sloan Favors Hoover

Sloan's announcement of his support of Hoover is given added interest through the fact that Pierre S. Du Pont, chairman of the board of directors of General Motors, and John J. Raskob, who was financial chairman of the corporation, have come out strongly for Governor Smith, Raskob being Democratic national chairman.

Sloan's statement follows in part: "I am in favor of the election of Mr. Hoover for president. In making that statement I want to emphasize that it is my position as an individual and has nothing to do with any business enterprise in which I may be connected.

ALBERT--CLENMORE SITE IS SELECTED FOR FIRST CHURCH

Announcement was made this morning by officials of the First United Presbyterian church, whose North Jefferson street edifice was totally destroyed by fire on last New Year's eve, that a paper will be presented to the Lawrence county court this afternoon calling for the appointment of the Lawrence Savings and Trust company as the legal guardian for Mrs. Fidelia W. D. Falls, of Cleveland, in the sale of her property on the north hill to the First United Presbyterian congregation, on which the church's new building will be erected.

The lot on which the proposed structure will be erected is located in the southwest corner of the intersection of Albert street and Clenmore boulevard, running 160 feet along Albert and 380 feet along Clenmore boulevard. The property is directly north of the Arthur McGill school.

All of the legal formalities in connection with the purchase of the property have been carried out and with the appointment of the guardian for the owner coming this afternoon, it should be but a matter of a few days until the actual sale of the property to the congregation is made.

Officers Hunt For Three Women In Connection With Brutal Killing

(International News Service)

FRESNO, Cal., Sept. 4.—Beaten beyond recognition, Oscar Wright, financial secretary of the Painters Union here, was dead today. His body was found in the bathroom of his home. He had evidently managed to crawl there from his bedroom where the murderous assault occurred.

Neighbors reported hearing a cry from his home on the night he was killed. They said they paid little attention to it, as noisy "parties" were frequently held at his home. Another neighbor reported seeing a man leave the house from the back door a short time later.

Meanwhile officers have instituted a search for three women, one of whom is said to have written a letter to Wright threatening his life as the result of a sentimental affair. Police are working on the theory that a disgruntled woman was the instigator of the crime, although the slaying was actually done by a man.

Regiment Will Meet In Akron For 1929 Reunion

Boys Of 332nd Conclude Most Successful Reunion In New Castle

HAVE PARADE AND BIG ENTERTAINMENT

Dinner Event On Sunday Takes Place At Cathedral—700 Present

Next year, the Saturday and Sunday before Labor Day will find the members of the 332nd regiment gathering at Akron, O., for their eighth annual reunion, according to the results of the voting of the members at the business meeting held Sunday morning at the Scottish Rite cathedral here as a part of their seventh annual reunion which was held in New Castle Sept. 1 and 2.

At this same meeting Ollie Haag of Akron, O., was elected president of the organization for the coming year; Walter Quail of Akron, secretary, and Oscar Little, also of Akron, treasurer. The business meeting of the regiment took place previous to the annual dinner in the cathedral.

Dinner Closes Events.

The dinner at the cathedral Sunday at noon closed the soldier boys' festivities which had been in progress in the city for two days. The seventh annual reunion of the regiment was sponsored by the members who are residents of New Castle, and more than 700 visiting doughboys from all parts of western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio were present.

The festivities started Friday evening when a number of the boys arrived in the city the evening prior to the formal opening of the reunion. All day Saturday the members of the regiment were arriving in the city and that evening practically all were here. The reunion started properly by company dinners which began at 6:30 Saturday evening.

Following the company dinners, of which there were 17 in number, the boys formed in line in front of The Castleton and marched in companies through the down town streets. The parade wound up at the Carnegie auditorium, where the annual entertainment took place. A clever show filled the bill of the evening, following the welcome to the soldier boys by

Florence Knapp Receives Sentence Of Thirty Days

ATTORNEYS MAKE LENIENCY APPEALS

Health Impaired Woman Receives Sentence In Stoic Frame Of Mind

(International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Former Secretary of State Florence E. S. Knapp today was sentenced to 30 days in the Albany county jail for stealing census money.

The first woman ever elected to high office in New York state received the sentence with hardly a quiver of lip.

Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan of Brooklyn sentenced Mrs. Knapp to jail after her counsel, P. C. Dugan, and Attorney General Albert Ottinger through his special deputy, George Z. Medalie, had appealed for leniency.

Mrs. Knapp was convicted last May of grand larceny but sentence was not passed by the court at that time because of her health.

She was tried twice. The first time the jury disagreed after deliberating eight hours. The second time a verdict of guilty was returned after the jury had been out less than four hours.

The specific indictment upon which Mrs. Knapp was tried charged her with the stealing of $2,875 of the $1,200,000 1925 state census fund. It was alleged by the prosecution, however, that she had defrauded the state out of upwards of $25,000 by placing her relatives on the census payroll and then pocketing their checks.

Mrs. Knapp Cool.

After sentence had been pronounced counsel for Mrs. Knapp announced they would take an immediate appeal. In the meantime, however, the Albany sheriff was making arrangements to take Mrs. Knapp to jail.

Women friends of the former state official rushed over and threw their arms around her and kissed her a moment after sentence had been pronounced. Instead of breaking down and weeping as had been expected, Mrs. Knapp smiled at them. She seemed to be the coolest woman in the courtroom.

Mrs. Knapp was far more nervous on the night last May when the jury pronounced her guilty than she appeared to be when she heard Justice Callaghan announce that she would have to spend the next 30 days in the Albany jail.

Mrs. Knapp was taken to jail shortly before noon by Sheriff Joseph Henchey. It was announced she would

Cars Collide On Youngstown Road—Driver One Car Is Arrested

OTHER MISHAPS OVER HOLIDAY

Automobile accidents in and about the city over the Labor Day holiday season were numerous, and several persons were injured, one seriously.

Mrs. Anna Gershom, 10 Walnut street, Crafton, Pa., is in the New Castle hospital in a serious condition, and Frank Parah, 66 Trumbull avenue, Canton, O., suffered a severe cut on the head in an accident occurring shortly before one o'clock Monday afternoon at Parkstown corners.

Mrs. Gershom had her collarbone broken in two places and her chest crushed, and the New Castle hospital authorities today stated that she had spent rather a restless night and that her condition was considered serious. Parah sustained a cut on the head which required five stitches to close.

Arrest Is Made

One arrest resulted from the accident, John Horvat, 523 David avenue, Canton, O., driver of one of the cars, being taken before Alderman William E. Marshall and charged with speeding and driving in a reckless manner by C. C. McDermott of the state highway patrol. In default of a fine and costs Horvat

Woman President Sure To Rule U. S. Some Day, Says Mrs. Nellie Ross

Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, right; in timate sketches of Mrs. Ross' life

By FRANK C. McLEARN.
New York Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Precedents are great things—especially in politics. In that inexact science tradition plays an important part, until some revolutionist, mild or otherwise, comes along to set new precedents and thus pave the way for more tradition.

Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former governor of Wyoming, is just such a person. She "broke the ice," so to speak, in the direction of attaining high public office for her sex. Other women had held public office before her, but she went them one better and became the first woman inaugurated as governor of a state.

High in Her Party

Just as Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general of the United States, is conceded the outstanding woman of the Republican party, so Mrs. Ross, who is directing the activities of the women in the Democratic Campaign headquarters here, is looked to by the women of

New Church Is Dedicated

Impressive Program Is Presented Monday at S. S. Philip And James Church

BISHOP HUGH BOYLE AIDS IN CEREMONY

Impressive and dignified, but joyous throughout, the dedication of S. S. Philip and James Church at the corner of Hanna and Charter street took place on Monday, September 3, with Bishop Hugh C. Boyle of Pittsburgh, and Mgr. Orzechowski of Cleveland, Ohio, officiating, and the pastor of the church, Rev. V. V. Stancelewski in general charge of the day.

For the auspicious occasion, the church was crowded to the utmost of its capacity. It was a day of realization for the congregation and pastor of the church, a day that amply repaid the struggle and sacrifice of the past years. It was the culmination of a dream that began ephemerally enough but soon took material shape, and on Monday, September 3rd, the church was dedicated to the service of God and the welfare of humanity.

Parade Opens Day.

A parade opened the program of the day. Starting at Gardner avenue, the congregation headed by the bishop and the visiting priests marched to the church and then around the church, following the ritual of the church. Bishop Boyle blessed and dedicated the exterior and all of the PARIS, Sept. 4. — Bound for the Azores on the first leg of a transatlantic flight attempt to New York, two youthful French airmen, Adjutant Jean Assolant and Sergeant Rene Lefevre, hopped off from Le Bourget flying field at 7:04 a. m. (2:04 a. m. New York Daylight Time) today.

Rockford Pilots Are Uninjured

Forced Down On Greenland Coast—Wander In Wilderness Two Weeks

WILL MAKE PLANS TO SALVAGE PLANE

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—American aviators Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, pilots of the plane Greater Rockford, are uninjured and in the best of health at Mount Evans, Greenland, despite the hardships they underwent when they were forced down on the Greenland coast and wandered through the wilderness for two weeks, according to additional details received by radio from Greenland today.

They are the guests of Professor William H. Hobbs and his staff at Camp Lloyd. It is expected that an effort will be made to salvage their plane at Sukkertoppen, on the rim of the Arctic Circle, if it has escaped damage in the storms which have been prevailing off the Greenland Coast.

It is expected that Hassell and Cramer will go from Evans to Copenhagen by steamer. Whether they will sail for New York from Copenhagen or some other European port is not yet decided. In any event it is believed that both will be back in Rockford the middle of October. A great deal depends upon how soon they can leave Greenland.

Just another day till the school bell rings and tomorrow will hear the gong. It's been three months since the classes ceased, but it hardly seems that long. The weeks and the days flew by on wings and the months rolled around like a flash, and tomorrow the kiddies are back in their rooms for the educational dash. Teachers are back from their summer's jaunt, all ready for classes to start, the kiddies who hustle to get their tasks and the youngsters listed as smart, will all be there for the opening bell, ready to get away on the race that leads down the nine month stretch, its sixty-seven today.

All day Saturday the members of the regiment were arriving in the city and that evening practically all were here. The reunion started properly by company dinners which began at 6:30 Saturday evening.

Following the company dinners, of which there were 17 in number, the boys formed in line in front of The Castleton and marched in companies through the down town streets. The parade wound up at the Carnegie auditorium, where the annual entertainment took place. A clever show filled the bill of the evening, following the welcome to the soldier boys by

(International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Former Secretary of State Florence E. S. Knapp today was sentenced to 30 days in the Albany county jail for stealing census money.

The first woman ever elected to high office in New York state received the sentence with hardly a quiver of lip.

Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan of Brooklyn sentenced Mrs. Knapp to jail after her counsel, P. C. Dugan, and Attorney General Albert Ottinger through his special deputy, George Z. Medalie, had appealed for leniency.

Mrs. Knapp was convicted last May of grand larceny but sentence was not passed by the court at that time because of her health.

She was tried twice. The first time the jury disagreed after deliberating eight hours. The second time a verdict of guilty was returned after the jury had been out less than four hours.

The specific indictment upon which Mrs. Knapp was tried charged her with the stealing of $2,875 of the $1,200,000 1925 state census fund. It was alleged by the prosecution, however, that she had defrauded the state out of upwards of $25,000 by placing her relatives on the census payroll and then pocketing their checks.

Mrs. Knapp Cool.

After sentence had been pronounced counsel for Mrs. Knapp announced they would take an immediate appeal. In the meantime, however, the Albany sheriff was making arrangements to take Mrs. Knapp to jail.

Women friends of the former state official rushed over and threw their arms around her and kissed her a moment after sentence had been pronounced. Instead of breaking down and weeping as had been expected, Mrs. Knapp smiled at them. She seemed to be the coolest woman in the courtroom.

Mrs. Knapp was far more nervous on the night last May when the jury pronounced her guilty than she appeared to be when she heard Justice Callaghan announce that she would have to spend the next 30 days in the Albany jail.

Mrs. Knapp was taken to jail shortly before noon by Sheriff Joseph Henchey. It was announced she would

Woman President Sure To Rule U. S. Some Day, Says Mrs. Nellie Ross

Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, right; in timate sketches of Mrs. Ross' life

By FRANK C. McLEARN.
New York Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Precedents are great things—especially in politics. In that inexact science tradition plays an important part, until some revolutionist, mild or otherwise, comes along to set new precedents and thus pave the way for more tradition.

Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former governor of Wyoming, is just such a person. She "broke the ice," so to speak, in the direction of attaining high public office for her sex. Other women had held public office before her, but she went them one better and became the first woman inaugurated as governor of a state.

High in Her Party

Just as Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general of the United States, is conceded the outstanding woman of the Republican party, so Mrs. Ross, who is directing the activities of the women in the Democratic Campaign headquarters here, is looked to by the women of

New Church Is Dedicated

Impressive Program Is Presented Monday at S. S. Philip And James Church

BISHOP HUGH BOYLE AIDS IN CEREMONY

Impressive and dignified, but joyous throughout, the dedication of S. S. Philip and James Church at the corner of Hanna and Charter street took place on Monday, September 3, with Bishop Hugh C. Boyle of Pittsburgh, and Mgr. Orzechowski of Cleveland, Ohio, officiating, and the pastor of the church, Rev. V. V. Stancelewski in general charge of the day.

For the auspicious occasion, the church was crowded to the utmost of its capacity. It was a day of realization for the congregation and pastor of the church, a day that amply repaid the struggle and sacrifice of the past years. It was the culmination of a dream that began ephemerally enough but soon took material shape, and on Monday, September 3rd, the church was dedicated to the service of God and the welfare of humanity.

Parade Opens Day.

A parade opened the program of the day. Starting at Gardner avenue, the congregation headed by the bishop and the visiting priests marched to the church and then around the church, following the ritual of the church. Bishop Boyle blessed and dedicated the exterior and all of the

Rockford Pilots Are Uninjured

Forced Down On Greenland Coast—Wander In Wilderness Two Weeks

WILL MAKE PLANS TO SALVAGE PLANE

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—American aviators Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, pilots of the plane Greater Rockford, are uninjured and in the best of health at Mount Evans, Greenland, despite the hardships they underwent when they were forced down on the Greenland coast and wandered through the wilderness for two weeks, according to additional details received by radio from Greenland today.

They are the guests of Professor William H. Hobbs and his staff at Camp Lloyd. It is expected that an effort will be made to salvage their plane at Sukkertoppen, on the rim of the Arctic Circle, if it has escaped damage in the storms which have been prevailing off the Greenland Coast.

It is expected that Hassell and Cramer will go from Evans to Copenhagen by steamer. Whether they will sail for New York from Copenhagen or some other European port is not yet decided. In any event it is believed that both will be back in Rockford the middle of October. A great deal depends upon how soon they can leave Greenland.

Just another day till the school bell rings and tomorrow will hear the gong. It's been three months since the classes ceased, but it hardly seems that long. The weeks and the days flew by on wings and the months rolled around like a flash, and tomorrow the kiddies are back in their rooms for the educational dash. Teachers are back from their summer's jaunt, all ready for classes to start, the kiddies who hustle to get their tasks and the youngsters listed as smart, will all be there for the opening bell, ready to get away on the race that leads down the nine month stretch, its sixty-seven today.

Mrs. Knapp walked out of the courtroom with Sheriff Henchey by her side without assistance and with hardly a trace of nervousness. She stumbled into the sheriff's automobile which was watting outside the court house, and was whirled away to jail a mile away in the residential part of the city.

the Democratic party. Both are high in the councils of their respective parties.

Mrs. Ross is direct, emphatic and efficient. You get that impression as you sit opposite her watching her carefully choosing her words. They come now, clear, concise, and with a ring of complete sincerity. No five dollar words, but simple and convincing.

"There are no especial difficulties a woman meets in office," says she. "That is, no more than men face in entering public life. My own case proves it. I represented the minority in my state when in office—Wyoming being normally Republican—but that didn't make any difference. It is just as easy for a woman, as a man, to establish administrative harmony. There was opposition, of course, but there is always opposition—that's part of the game.

"Women have a great future, and not in politics alone. They are proving their worth in almost every line of endeavor."

A Woman President

At the Democratic convention in Houston, Tex., in June, the name of Mrs. Ross was brought before the conclave as a vice presidential possibility. There were many who believed she'd make a good team-mate for Smith. "But I didn't seek the honor," she declares.

"Yes, we'll have a woman president some day. Probably not for a while, but it will come." And she sits very straight in her swivel chair looking out upon Broadway — this woman who is smashing . . . and setting, precedents.

YOUTHFUL FRENCH FLIERS START ON ATLANTIC FLIGHT

was lost to view in the early morning mists. Assolant was at the controls at the start.

There was much talk of a mystery passenger secreted in the plane's cabin. One rumor had it that the man said to be aboard was a banker. According to another he was the son of a wealthy Paris hotel keeper.

Fliers Are Youngsters

The fliers hope to reach New York in less than fifty hours. Their plane has a cruising speed of 125 miles an hour and a theoretical flying radius of about 5,600 miles. Its fuel tanks hold 1,125 gallons. Power is furnished by an 850 horse power Hispano motor.

About an hour before Assolant and Lefevre hopped off, two other French fliers, Favreau and Marmier, took off on a long distance flight but returned within ten minutes because their plane was unable to gain altitude.

Both Assolant and Lefevre are under 25 years of age but experienced fliers. Assolant was recently decorated with the Medal Militaire. He took an active part in the Riff campaign in 1925. Lefevre is a famous night pilot and a former athlete of note. He holds several long distance track records.

The "Yellow Canary" is almost exactly similar in every particular to the Bernard monoplane in which Captain Coudaret made an unsuccessful attempt to start for America last week. Coudaret's ship came to grief on the telegraph wires at the edge of Le Bourget field.

As the hours passed, the belief grew that a third person was in the plane. According to reports here the third occupant of the plane was Armano Lotti, 31, son of a hotel keeper.

May Change Plans

Friends of the fliers stated after the start that there was a possibility that they might head south for Dakar, Senegal, Africa, after reaching the Azores if conditions for continuance of the westward flight were not propitious. Should they fly to Dakar, it is believed they would then essay a hop across the South Atlantic to South America.

Many partisans felt today that the flight should not have been attempted so closely upon the heels of the tragic accident which cost the lives of Air Minister Bokanowski and four others.

Advised that it was the general belief that his son was aboard the "Yellow Canary," the father of Armand Lotti said he was only mildly surprised but deeply grieved because of the effect it would have upon his wife.

"My son has been woldly enthusiastic about aviation for a long time," he said. "He has continually been trying to get passage on one of the planes which planned to cross the Atlantic. He recently approached Lebrix with that end in view. Although he is an adult and not responsible to my wife and myself, he might have considered the effect such a hazardous departure might have upon her."

Make Good Time

Rambouillet, France, Sept. 4.—The single-motored Bernard monoplane "Yellow Canary" in which the French fliers Adjutant Jean Assolant and Sergeant Rene Lefevre are flying to the Azores on the first leg of a transatlantic attempt to New York passed over this city at 7:30 a. m. (2:30 a. m. New York Daylight Time) today.

The plans was making good speed at a height of 2,100 feet.

Rambouillet is about 50 miles southwest of Paris.

City Controller Phil G. Greer, who represented Mayor Gillespie.

Sunday at 11 o'clock found the business session started and all negotiations were settled and everything was in readiness for the spaghetti dinner served in the cathedral banquet hall at noon sharp. Now doughboys, especially those who were stationed in Italy, are especially fond of spaghetti, and they certainly sat down to a spread that has never been equaled. It was prepared by Sam Di Filippo, who is a resident of the seventh ward and a spaghetti juggler supreme. Spaghetti wasn't all and the boys ate for what seemed several hours of dishes of spaghetti, cake, pie, meat balls and most any comestible that one might mention.

Home Receptions.

At this dinner the visiting members of the regiment were guests of the local members. The dinner concluded the activities of the seventh reunion and following this the rest of the program was purely informal. The boys gathered about The Castleton lobby and had their goodbyes and handshakes and again evening a number of them had departed homeward while the remainder stayed in the city for further good times until yesterday when again noon all had dispersed to meet again at the eighth convention next year.

The reunion held here was in charge of William Flemming, chairman, and Roy Preston, secretary. These two men headed the committee on arrangements which was composed of practically all of the members of the regiment who are local residents.

WOMAN PREIDENT SURE TO RULE U. S. SOME DAY, SAYS MRS. NELLIE ROSS

the Democratic party., Both are high in the councils of their respective parties.

Mrs. Ross is direct, emphatic and efficient. You get that impression as you sit opposite her watching her carefully choosing her words. They come now, clear, concise, and with a ring of complete sincerity. No five dollar words, but simple and convincing.

"There are no especial difficulties a woman meets in office," says she. "That is, no more than men face in entering public life. My own case proves it. I represented the minority in my state when in office—Wyoming being normally Republican—but that didn't make any difference. It is just as easy for a woman, as a man, to establish administrative harmony. There was opposition, of course, but there is always opposition—that's part of the game.

"Women have a great future, and not in politics alone. They are proving their worth in almost every line of endeavor."

A Woman President

At the Democratic convention in Houston, Tex., in June, the name of Mrs. Ross was brought before the conclave as a vice presidential possibility. There were many who believed she'd make a good team-mate for Smith. "But I didn't seek the honor," she declares.

"Yes, we'll have a woman president some day. Probably not for a while, but it will come." And she sits very straight in her swivel chair looking out upon Broadway — this woman who is smashing . . . and setting, precedents.

was lost to view in the early morning mists. Assolant was at the controls at the start.

There was much talk of a mystery passenger secreted in the plane's cabin. One rumor had it that the man said to be aboard was a banker. According to another he was the son of a wealthy Paris hotel keeper.

Fliers Are Youngsters

The fliers hope to reach New York in less than fifty hours. Their plane has a cruising speed of 125 miles an hour and a theoretical flying radius of about 5,600 miles. Its fuel tanks hold 1,125 gallons. Power is furnished by an 850 horse power Hispano motor.

About an hour before Assolant and Lefevre hopped off, two other French fliers, Favreau and Marmier, took off on a long distance flight but returned within ten minutes because their plane was unable to gain altitude.

Both Assolant and Lefevre are under 25 years of age but experienced fliers. Assolant was recently decorated with the Medal Militaire. He took an active part in the Riff campaign in 1925. Lefevre is a famous night pilot and a former athlete of note. He holds several long distance track records.

The "Yellow Canary" is almost exactly similar in every particular to the Bernard monoplane in which Captain Coudaret made an unsuccessful attempt to start for America last week. Coudaret's ship came to grief on the telegraph wires at the edge of Le Bourget field.

As the hours passed, the belief grew that a third person was in the plane. According to reports here the third occupant of the plane was Armano Lotti, 31, son of a hotel keeper.

May Change Plans

Friends of the fliers stated after the start that there was a possibility that they might head south for Dakar, Senegal, Africa, after reaching the Azores if conditions for continuance of the westward flight were not propitious. Should they fly to Dakar, it is believed they would then essay a hop across the South Atlantic to South America.

Many partisans felt today that the flight should not have been attempted so closely upon the heels of the tragic accident which cost the lives of Air Minister Bokanowski and four others.

Advised that it was the general belief that his son was aboard the "Yellow Canary," the father of Armand Lotti said he was only mildly surprised but deeply grieved because of the effect it would have upon his wife.

"My son has been woldly enthusiastic about aviation for a long time," he said. "He has continually been trying to get passage on one of the planes which planned to cross the Atlantic. He recently approached Lebrix with that end in view. Although he is an adult and not responsible to my wife and myself, he might have considered the effect such a hazardous departure might have upon her."

Make Good Time

Rambouillet, France, Sept. 4.—The single-motored Bernard monoplane "Yellow Canary" in which the French fliers Adjutant Jean Assolant and Sergeant Rene Lefevre are flying to the Azores on the first leg of a transatlantic attempt to New York passed over this city at 7:30 a. m. (2:30 a. m. New York Daylight Time) today.

The plans was making good speed at a height of 2,100 feet.

Rambouillet is about 50 miles southwest of Paris.

City Controller Phil G. Greer, who represented Mayor Gillespie.

Sunday at 11 o'clock found the business session started and all negotiations were settled and everything was in readiness for the spaghetti dinner served in the cathedral banquet hall at noon sharp. Now doughboys, especially those who were stationed in Italy, are especially fond of spaghetti, and they certainly sat down to a spread that has never been equaled. It was prepared by Sam Di Filippo, who is a resident of the seventh ward and a spaghetti juggler supreme. Spaghetti wasn't all and the boys ate for what seemed several hours of dishes of spaghetti, cake, pie, meat balls and most any comestible that one might mention.

Home Receptions.

At this dinner the visiting members of the regiment were guests of the local members. The dinner concluded the activities of the seventh reunion and following this the rest of the program was purely informal. The boys gathered about The Castleton lobby and had their goodbyes and handshakes and again evening a number of them had departed homeward while the remainder stayed in the city for further good times until yesterday when again noon all had dispersed to meet again at the eighth convention next year.

The reunion held here was in charge of William Flemming, chairman, and Roy Preston, secretary. These two men headed the committee on arrangements which was composed of practically all of the members of the regiment who are local residents.

Never An Iron On My Hair

Wherever my theatrical engagements happen to take me I could have a marcel, but I never do. I prefer my own method—waving my hair with my Wave and Sheen.

Edna Wallace Hopper as she looks today

I always keep my hair clean by shampooing once a week. I apply Wave and Sheen with a comb. You can use a brush, or just your hands.

I dampen the hair with it—insert combs in the direction I wish the waves, tie a veil over my hair and keep it on for about an hour. Some types of hair require more time, some less.

The result is a soft, lovely, undulating wave. Most people in my audiences think I have it marceled. Many ask whether it is a natural wave. It is not.

You can have this same sheen no matter what method you use to wave your hair. Get a bottle at any toilet counter for 75 cents. One trial will convince you as it has thousands of others.

Y. M. C. A. Swimming Schedule Changes

Swimming schedules which were announced to change some time ago by Kalter Kirker of the Y. M. C. A. go into effect today, according to the statement of physical director Kirker this morning.

The new schedules were arranged so as to better accomodate the swimmers who are now enrolled in school. Previous to this time, the school children came during the day time for their swims, and the start of school necessitated the change.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morrow and sons, of Butler, Pa., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Paul Burrows, Franklin avenue.

Never An Iron On My Hair

Wherever my theatrical engagements happen to take me I could have a marcel, but I never do. I prefer my own method—waving my hair with my Wave and Sheen.

Edna Wallace Hopper as she looks today

I always keep my hair clean by shampooing once a week. I apply Wave and Sheen with a comb. You can use a brush, or just your hands.

I dampen the hair with it—insert combs in the direction I wish the waves, tie a veil over my hair and keep it on for about an hour. Some types of hair require more time, some less.

The result is a soft, lovely, undulating wave. Most people in my audiences think I have it marceled. Many ask whether it is a natural wave. It is not.

You can have this same sheen no matter what method you use to wave your hair. Get a bottle at any toilet counter for 75 cents. One trial will convince you as it has thousands of others.

UNION LABEL

WHAT! NOT CROOKS?

IT IS sheer partisan nonsense to talk as if any political party has a monopoly either of virtue or of vice, and any candidate who went on the stump this year with the intention of talking that nonsense would soon discover that the American people are not such fools as the theory implies. They have taken the measure of both parties and they know quite well that both of them are a mixture of good and bad. They would laugh at a politician who would tell them anything else. They know that to be buncombe, and if there is one thing more than any other which the independent voters of the United States are tired of, it is buncombe.

Nobody, least of all a Democrat, needs to have any regret that this campaign does not have for its paramount issue the allegedly peculiar viciousness of all Republicans. That sort of talk belongs to a past age when men were much more naive in politics than they are today.

Governor Smith could not make a campaign based on the notion that all Republicans are crooks and all Democrats saints. He could not make such a campaign because the opposition could keep on shouting Tammany. The Democratic candidate is not conducting a self-righteous crusade, because he is not a self-righteous man. The early plans of the Democratic managers to make the campaign on the Jacksonian issue of "turn the rascals out" were upset by the nomination of a child of Tammany. The reputation of the Tammany Tiger is no better than that of the men who slipped in under the Harding administration and slipped out again on skids placed by the Republican party.

FREIGHT MOVEMENT

THOSE owl-eyed gentlemen who get their pleasure out of life by trying to prove the presence of "hard times" jump at every opportunity to cite lower freight loadings as proof of their pessimistic claims. It is customary to interpret the freight movements as reflecting general business conditions. The inference is sound if the comparison is not made blindly. No index can be rigidly applied, year after year.

During the first four months of this year carloads of revenue freight were considerably smaller than in the same period of 1927. Does this mean less business activity? Not necessarily so. The decline in carloadings has been largely due to coke and coal. Coal shipments have been low, and especially so in contrast with last year, when coal shipments were relatively large in anticipation of the strike on April 1. Ore shipments and those of forest products have fallen slightly, but shipments of grain and livestock are greater. Naturally, the coal roads have lost revenue, but the granger roads report a gain.

It does not follow from the lower shipments of coal that there is less manufacture and power consumption. It may mean a shift from one kind of fuel and power to another. If consumption of all power were reduced, it would reflect a reduction in business activity. But this is not necessarily to be inferred from decline in coal shipments over rails, nor from such declines in other tonnage as have been demonstrated.

WHERE IS THE LEAGUE?

THE Democratic party is not pursued this year by the ghost of the League of Nations. Little was heard at the Houston convention of this once burning issue and reference to it is wholly lacking in Democratic propaganda. Prohibition, farm relief and the tariff have been on many tongues, but talk of assuming a place at the council table of Geneva has been strangely lacking. What the Democrats classed the paramount issue of the campaign of 1920 and the major principle in the election of 1924 appears to have faded out of the picture.

How completely the League of Nations has been shoved into the background may be judged by the fact that not even Newton D. Baker now carries the banner of internationalism into the conflict. The former secretary of war accepts the verdict of more practical politicians that there is no need to exhume an issue which has been twice buried by the votes of millions of Americans.

Abandonment of the league issues rids the Democratic party of a handicap which it has long shouldered disastrously to itself. It was demonstrated even before 1920 that the United States would have none of it. The overwhelming defeat of the nominee who sought to capitalize the Wilsonian doctrine eight years ago ought to have been sufficient evidence of its rejection.

The idea of the League of Nations was always abhorrent to the citizens of the United States and ran counter to the traditions on which this government was established.

The final test of sportsmanship is to hit a cop with your flivver and not run.

THE POSSIBILITIES OF THE SCHOOL CHILD

The most interesting thing about any child is its possibility.

Not what the child is, but what it may become is the most entrancing thing about it.

Of course every parent has dreams of what that child is to be in the future. As he goes away to school she may think of him as a potential president or Lindberg or diplomat. Who knows what fond dreams are in every mother's heart? And who can tell the misery of her heartbreak when the child turns out to be a bad man!

We often think that every convict in the penitentiary, every murderer and monster, once lay, a wondering child upon its mother's breast.

But the main thing is to learn the dreams of the child itself and to take part in them. It is much more important to share his dreams than to take part in his work and play. Our truest companions are the fellows of our dreams, our greatest pals are the pals of our longing. As Lowell says:

"The thing we long for, that we are,
For one transcendent moment."

In fact, the theory that is much stressed by modern educators, is that education is to be based upon the character and tastes of the child, and not upon a rigid system. Education should not be a Procrustean bed, the child is not to be cut or stretched to fit a system, but the system is to be altered to suit the child.

He may have a natural bent toward history or mathematics, or he may have an aversion to one class of study.

It is said of Lord Macauley that he could never grasp the intricacies of mathematics. To him it was always an insoluble mystery.

He remarked once that he could see no reason why he should study geometry, unless it were a sort of divine thing. Anyway, he would rather worship it than study it. So he exclaimed: "Oh wonderful base, oh marvelous perpendicular, oh divine hypothenuse!"

An important thing, perhaps the most important, in the child's life, is to find out the sort of activity to which he is fitted. Nature implants in us certain tastes and trends. Some men are born blacksmiths and some poets. The world is full of literary workers who ought to be herding cattle. It is more or less of a tragedy for any one to be condemned to an occupation or career, for which he is wholly unsuited.

"Few men find themselves before they die," said Emerson.

The main thing, therefore, is to make sure that your child is not to be a square peg in a round hole. It is well not to select a calling for him, as the law or the gospel, and compel him to enter it, but to find out that for which he is adapted and adjust yourself to that. Of course there are certain things that he must study whether he like them or not, but the principal thing is to assist him to discover and develop his own possibilities.

KEEP YOUR DREAMS

Keep your dreams—they're richer far
Than the facts discovered are.

Do not seek all things to touch.
Do not want to know too much.

Growing old, still play the child.
Keep some glory undefiled.

What if clouds are mist and air?
Still see white ships sailing there.

What would life be if we knew
Only those things which are true?

If the things of bad and good
Were by all men understood?

Nature's hills and brooks and springs
Would be catalogued as things.

Keep your dreams, for in them lies
Joy denied to men grown wise.

Still build castles in the air!
Still see white ships sailing there!

Still have something to pursue,
Something which you wish you knew.

New York for Smith?
Georgia for Hoover?
$25,000,000 for Rosenwald.
This IS an Empire.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

New York state's labor union convention indorses Gov. Smith for president, many well known Republicans in union labor ranks leaving their party. This follows a refusal of the national union labor body to take sides in the campaign.

Gov. Smith's friends are forcing the fight in New York state, convinced that if Republicans lose in New York they will lose in the nation.

From Georgia, on the other hand, comes M. O. Dunning, said to know politics better than Webster knew spelling. At Montauk, L. I., yesterday Mr. Dunning told Carl Fisher, king of Miami; Mr. Coffin, boss of Hudson and Essex, and this writer, that Herbert Hoover would surely carry Georgia.

He complained that Republican leaders do not see their opportunities in the South, "where," said he, "several states are offered to them on a silver platter."

Results in this campaign will surprise those most deeply interested. Ask Col. Knight, of Tampa.

It pays to stick to your convictions, friends and business.

In 1921 things looked dark for Sears-Roebuck. Shrinkage in after-the-war inventory values threatened to stop preferred dividends. That would have meant nothing to Rosenwald, he could afford to wait.

But friends had bought the stock on his advice, so Mr. Rosenwald put $16,000,000 cash into the company and made it a present of 50,000 shares of its own stock, only reserving the right to buy the stock back at $100 a share.

All went well, the company bought and retired all of its preferred stock out of profits. Rosenwald bought back his 50,000 shares for $5,000,000, and made $25,000,000 cash profit.

Mr. Rosenwald, you will notice, never sells anything short, in this country. He knows that prosperity is only beginning.

Mr. Wall Street Bear, write that on your cuff.

Some goose says that Mr. Firestone, planting rubber trees in Liberia on a gigantic scale, is "guilty of imperialism," and that Herbert Hoover, as Secretary of Commerce, had a share in that dreadful enterprise.

First, Secretary Kellogg shows that Hoover had nothing to do with the Firestone enterprise.

Second, that's a pity. For Hoover could have helped, and Firestone, planting rubber trees, to fight off the British rubber monopoly, first denounced by Herbert Hoover, renders public service.

Americans not afraid to wander off a few thousands miles to compete in world affairs are needed.

This country is an empire, a big one, and going to be bigger. It needs the sort of men that Britain calls "imperially minded."

Representatives of Russia's government are in America, prepared to spend $40,000,000 for automobile trucks, tractors and other farm machinery.

That should soften our government, which, in silly, provincial fashion, invites all nations EXCEPT Russia, to sign the peace pact.

Our diplomacy reflects the angry disappointment of foolish bankers that bought Russian bonds, and lost their money. They bought from the Czar and feeble Kerensky, and most of the money stayed HERE to pay American bills.

Modern Russia says "We don't pay the Czar's debts," just as we should have said 150 years ago, "We don't pay King George's debts."

Greedy, foolish buyers of worthless bonds should not prevent sensible American business men doing business with Russia, or cause Uncle Sam to turn against an old friend. Russian buying here will make up many times over for the foolish bankers' losses on Russian bonds.

As for Russia's kind of government, that is not our business. The British wisely say, "We do business with cannibals."

Eighty years ago Francis E. Willard, noble worker for temperance, planted two chestnut trees at Evanston, Ill., saying, "As these trees grow and spread their branches, so the cause of temperance shall grow and spread throughout the world."

Both trees are dying, and the W. C. T. U. has sent for tree surgeons to save them, that they may, in November, post on the trees election returns, "as state after state repudiates the candidate who has declared himself a wet."

If those trees have been "watered" with bootleg whisky, as cynics suggest, the tree surgeons will work in vain.

The R. E. Jacks Ranch, of San Luis Obispo county, one of the largest in California, will replace many cowboys with one airplane.

The boss cowboy will ride through the air, not far up, supervising herds and spying out fence breaks.

Flying becomes more useful every day, and releasing cowboys from dull, not at all romantic work, is a blessing.

New Jersey passes sensible uniform traffic laws. Open country speed is increased from 30 to 40 miles an hour. Thirty miles is allowed in regulated city traffic.

And most important, foot traffic must obey traffic signals and cross streets at corners.

This rule, old in California, should be adopted everywhere.

A technical writer says there are some chemicals for which man has found no use. Evidently he has a limited knowledge of beverages.

Daily Editorial Digest

Symposium of Editorial Views By Newspapers of Nation on Important Subjects as Edited by Consolidated Press Association.

ADVANCE FOR AMERICAN FLYING SEEN IN GOEBEL'C RECORD FEAT.

Aviation is believed to have benefited materially from Arthur Goebel's non-stop flight between Los Angeles and New York. Comments emphasize the point that too little attention has been paid to flying across the continent as contrasted with public interest in overseas feats and the clipping of nearly eight hours from the record by Goebel is acclaimed as an important contribution to practical development.

It seems curious to the BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE that "in the development of aviation there has been so little interest in spanning the great American continent." The Eagle points out that "it has been five years since Kelly and Macready made the first continuous flight from the East to the West coast."

"In the past," suggests the ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, "long-distance flights been principally attempted overseas. They have called for a tremendous toll of life, as pioneering in any great development does. Only in the past few days other lives have been sacrificed. It is heartening to know that overland flights are being popularized. The hazards are less. The direct results in the interest of commercial aviation are greater."

"The part of the flight that will appeal to those who have some interest in our national defense, and who are not so idealistic as to believe that wars are gone forever,' according to the HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH, "is the thought of the speed which defensive aircraft can be shifted from one part of the country to another. Think of squadrons of pursuit and attack planes resting in their hangars on the Pacific coast, when the wires sing of impending hostilities on the Atlantic side. It is late afternoon but in a short time the ships are wheeled to the line, the motors roar and swarms of fighting craft are in the air to roll their wheels on Eastern flying fields before the sun is old the next morning."

"The hours spent in flying from Los Angeles to New York made up a period sufficiently long to offer opportunity to observe the behavior of the machine under conditions of considerable stress says the NASHVILLE BANNER, "and the flight was remarkable enough to call public attention to flying and emphasize its unusual possibilities. In other words, aviation profited by Goebel's venture and he and his companions were not taking exceedingly long chances."

"Winner of the Dole race to Hawaii last year, Goebel adds a much more important feather to his cap by this flight, because of its practical meaning" in the opnion of the NEWARK EVENING NEWS. "When two such flights as that of Hassell for Greenland and that of Goebel from coast to coast are undertaken the same week it appears heartening that stunt flights are giving way to sensible efforts to reduce American flying to the useful. Europe is ahead of us in that respect and the sooner we steady down to it the more speedily aviation in America will become the utility it should be rather than the means of self-advertising it too often is."

"If you believe you will not be able to remember that Art Goebel flew from Los Angeles to New York in 18 hours and 58 minutes without a single stop, just carry away the conviction that very soon you will be able to breakfast in New York or Cleveland and dine the same day in San Francisco or Los Angeles" suggests the CLEVELAND NEWS. The ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS emphasizes the point that "the transcontinental flier goes 50 per cent more rapidly than five years ago" drawing the conclusion: "The point of interest has changed. It now is not so much that a coast-to-coast flight has been made but that it has been made faster." Of the thrill that might have been produced a few years ago the News remarks that the American people have become so familiar with the skill of pilots and the dependability of airplanes that it may "take a flight to the moon to startle them before long."

"Now that Goebel has brought the non-stop transcontinental flight back into the limelight" the SOUTH BEND TRIBUNE predicts, "we may expect to see other fliers attempting to establish new records. His record will not stand forever, of course, because advances in airplane construction will eventually make these pioneer records less impressive. But Goebel's feat is nevertheless an important development."

"These wonderful spurts which aviation keeps making" states the NEW ORLEANS ITEM, "illustrate the marvelous and untapped possibilities which lie ahead. Precedent and previous experience in long flights are a great help in planning, but afford poor materials for predictions. Goebel bettered the time of his closest runner-up by seven hours 50 minutes and 48 seconds. That certainly amounts to what sportsmen call a total 'upset'. It reflects the amazing possibilities of aviation and it speaks loudly of the progress made in building, operating and navigating planes."

On the subject of provision for such flights the SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS says: " This flight should show the south and the southwest the need for lighted coast-to-coast airway largely parelleling the Mexican border and the Gulf. It would be practically free from fog and such perilous side winds as he encountered in India. Until that course is arranged the country's aerial communication lines will not be well balanced. It is certain that traffic over a southern transcontinental airway would pay from the outset."

Features of the flight which are listed by the LOS ANGELES TIMES are that "the amount of gasoline consumed was 300 gallons less than that of the Macready and Kelly record;" that he demonstrated the possibility of flying across a whole continent by compass reckoning alone with no radio assistance and over landmarks for a great part of the distance blotted out by fog;" that he "proved that a man in good physical condition can pilot an airplane for 18 hours at a stretch without any detriment to the human machinery and that the plane "stood up perfectly under the stress of bad weather."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

SPORTSMEN IN PRINTS.

As the United States becomes more and more the background for real sport and sportsmen the demand for prints of America's contenders upon the world's fields becomes more pronounced.

Gordon Ross is a painter of horses and riders of horses. He is a citizen of the Republic, living and having his studio in New York. Prints have been made of his paintings and command high prices. He is now completing a painting of the Virginia Gold Cup Steeplechase.

This painting shows one of the nothern Virginia straight, wired, rail fences with the full field of entries sweeping up to and over it. The well known blue dotted silks of Foxhall Keene show the way as they did for a time that afternoon when Robert Davis took the lead on Jidgie. The red silks with blue and white diamonds, colors of another New York sportsman, W. C. Langley, are close behind, on the back of R. B. Young, who was riding Town Major 2nd.

Then came six horses all in the air at one time and the rest of the field galloping after them. And contrary to much print-making traditions no horse is standing on its head and no rider is scrambling to his feet.

Mr. Ross has given an orginal treatment, entirely his own, to the rolling fields, the crude, unpainted board house, the lines of cedars along the fences, and the distant hills in the background of his Virginia landscape. It is Virginia, and it is Gordon Foss—decorative, alive, full of atmosphere.

When the work is completed, Mr. Ross will have engraved prints struck off and colored by hand and they will be highly decorative as well as historically valuable.

The print of the Virginia Gold Cup Steeplechase will continue a series begun with the Brookline Country Club meeting, executed by Mr. Ross more than a year ago. He also has done a notable series of past masters of English field sports, including Robert Smith Surtees, the creator of Jorrocks, Scapy Sponge and Facy Romford; Charles J. Apperley, better known as "Nimrod" and author of "Hunting Reminiscences," "Life and Death of John Mytton," and other hunting classics; Thomas Assheton Smith, Master of the Quron and one of the hardest riders of all times; John Mytton, the daredevil sportsman of Halston; Hugo Meynell, the father of modern hunting and Master of Foxhounds for 47 years; and a full length portrait of Peter Beckford, the scholarly author of "Thoughts on Hunting." The two first prints have been sold out and are no longer obtainable.

There are only two other artists seriously devoting themselves to the same field. They are the popular Ned King, whose father was president of a New York Bank, and who was himself educated in the atmasphere of sport, and taught as a youngster to tool a coach and four and to ride across country, and a younger contemporary, Paul Brown.

Mr. King's work frequently is to be seen on exhibition at some function as the Brookline Race Meeting, the Cathedral Horse Show or the Masters of Foxhounds' show at the New York Riding Club, and monthly he has a pen and ink sketch in the Rider and Driver. But his series of hunt plates is too little known. It should be continued and made to include all the hunts in this country.

Paul Brown has an exhibition of his drawings at Saratoga now. But a visit to the Robertson-Deschamps galleries in New York discloses the fact that the latest and most interesting examples of his work are not there.

He recently has done six dry point etchings of polo, steeplechasing and hunting, that must rank among the very best, examples from his hand. Paul Brown's future as an artist grows brighter with the passing months.

None of these men, however, is going far afield in his work. All are doing no golfing prints as has Cecil Aiden and no tennis, shooting, angling and boxing prints, such as many of English sports artists have done.

The reason is that the most appreciative and the most liberal patrons by far are the equestrians. Brown has won the approval of the polo and cross country sets. King and Ross of the steeplechasing and hunting groups.

But it would seem that an even larger American public would be interested in first class, artistic sporting prints of Bobbie Jones at St. Andrews, of Tilden at Auteuil, or of the California crew at Sloten. There is no reason why only the horse loving element should foster sporting art in America. So far it has done so singlehanded.

Speaking of horses: A certain gentleman was reported to have bought a horse recently. One of his friends said in surprise: "I did not know Jack was as rich as that. He might have bought a Rolls-Royce and I would not have given the matter a moment's thought."

A real optimist is a guy who thinks he can go on ignorin' car track an' rail crossin' dangers indefinitely without comin' t' grief

WHAT! NOT CROOKS?

IT IS sheer partisan nonsense to talk as if any political party has a monopoly either of virtue or of vice, and any candidate who went on the stump this year with the intention of talking that nonsense would soon discover that the American people are not such fools as the theory implies. They have taken the measure of both parties and they know quite well that both of them are a mixture of good and bad. They would laugh at a politician who would tell them anything else. They know that to be buncombe, and if there is one thing more than any other which the independent voters of the United States are tired of, it is buncombe.

Nobody, least of all a Democrat, needs to have any regret that this campaign does not have for its paramount issue the allegedly peculiar viciousness of all Republicans. That sort of talk belongs to a past age when men were much more naive in politics than they are today.

Governor Smith could not make a campaign based on the notion that all Republicans are crooks and all Democrats saints. He could not make such a campaign because the opposition could keep on shouting Tammany. The Democratic candidate is not conducting a self-righteous crusade, because he is not a self-righteous man. The early plans of the Democratic managers to make the campaign on the Jacksonian issue of "turn the rascals out" were upset by the nomination of a child of Tammany. The reputation of the Tammany Tiger is no better than that of the men who slipped in under the Harding administration and slipped out again on skids placed by the Republican party.

FREIGHT MOVEMENT

THOSE owl-eyed gentlemen who get their pleasure out of life by trying to prove the presence of "hard times" jump at every opportunity to cite lower freight loadings as proof of their pessimistic claims. It is customary to interpret the freight movements as reflecting general business conditions. The inference is sound if the comparison is not made blindly. No index can be rigidly applied, year after year.

During the first four months of this year carloads of revenue freight were considerably smaller than in the same period of 1927. Does this mean less business activity? Not necessarily so. The decline in carloadings has been largely due to coke and coal. Coal shipments have been low, and especially so in contrast with last year, when coal shipments were relatively large in anticipation of the strike on April 1. Ore shipments and those of forest products have fallen slightly, but shipments of grain and livestock are greater. Naturally, the coal roads have lost revenue, but the granger roads report a gain.

It does not follow from the lower shipments of coal that there is less manufacture and power consumption. It may mean a shift from one kind of fuel and power to another. If consumption of all power were reduced, it would reflect a reduction in business activity. But this is not necessarily to be inferred from decline in coal shipments over rails, nor from such declines in other tonnage as have been demonstrated.

WHERE IS THE LEAGUE?

THE Democratic party is not pursued this year by the ghost of the League of Nations. Little was heard at the Houston convention of this once burning issue and reference to it is wholly lacking in Democratic propaganda. Prohibition, farm relief and the tariff have been on many tongues, but talk of assuming a place at the council table of Geneva has been strangely lacking. What the Democrats classed the paramount issue of the campaign of 1920 and the major principle in the election of 1924 appears to have faded out of the picture.

How completely the League of Nations has been shoved into the background may be judged by the fact that not even Newton D. Baker now carries the banner of internationalism into the conflict. The former secretary of war accepts the verdict of more practical politicians that there is no need to exhume an issue which has been twice buried by the votes of millions of Americans.

Abandonment of the league issues rids the Democratic party of a handicap which it has long shouldered disastrously to itself. It was demonstrated even before 1920 that the United States would have none of it. The overwhelming defeat of the nominee who sought to capitalize the Wilsonian doctrine eight years ago ought to have been sufficient evidence of its rejection.

The idea of the League of Nations was always abhorrent to the citizens of the United States and ran counter to the traditions on which this government was established.

THE POSSIBILITIES OF THE SCHOOL CHILD

The most interesting thing about any child is its possibility.

Not what the child is, but what it may become is the most entrancing thing about it.

Of course every parent has dreams of what that child is to be in the future. As he goes away to school she may think of him as a potential president or Lindberg or diplomat. Who knows what fond dreams are in every mother's heart? And who can tell the misery of her heartbreak when the child turns out to be a bad man!

We often think that every convict in the penitentiary, every murderer and monster, once lay a wondering child upon its mother's breast.

But the main thing is to learn the dreams of the child itself and to take part in them. It is much more important to share his dreams than to take part in his work and play. Our truest companions are the fellows of our dreams, our greatest pals are the pals of our longing. As Lowell says:

"The thing we long for, that we are,
For one transcendent moment."

In fact, the theory that is much stressed by modern educators, is that education is to be based upon the character and tastes of the child, and not upon a rigid system. Education should not be a Procrustean bed, the child is not to be cut or stretched to fit a system, but the system is to be altered to suit the child.

He may have a natural bent toward history or mathematics, or he may have an aversion to one class of study.

It is said of Lord Macauley that he could never grasp the intricacies of mathematics. To him it was always an insoluble mystery.

He remarked once that he could see no reason why he should study geometry, unless it were a sort of divine thing. Anyway, he would rather worship it than study it. So he exclaimed: "Oh wonderful base, oh marvelous perpendicular, oh divine hypothenuse!"

An important thing, perhaps the most important, in the child's life, is to find out the sort of activity to which he is fitted. Nature implants in us certain tastes and trends. Some men are born blacksmiths and some poets. The world is full of literary workers who ought to be herding cattle. It is more or less of a tragedy for any one to be condemned to an occupation or career, for which he is wholly unsuited.

"Few men find themselves before they die," said Emerson.

The main thing, therefore, is to make sure that your child is not to be a square peg in a round hole. It is well not to select a calling for him, as the law or the gospel, and compel him to enter it, but to find out that for which he is adapted and adjust yourself to that. Of course there are certain things that he must study whether he like them or not, but the principal thing is to assist him to discover and develop his own possibilities.

KEEP YOUR DREAMS

Keep your dreams—they're richer far
Than the facts discovered are.

Do not seek all things to touch.
Do not want to know too much.

Growing old, still play the child.
Keep some glory undefiled.

What if clouds are mist and air?
Still see white ships sailing there.

What would life be if we knew
Only those things which are true?

If the things of bad and good
Were by all men understood?

Nature's hills and brooks and springs
Would be catalogued as things.

Keep your dreams, for in them lies
Joy denied to men grown wise.

Still build castles in the air!
Still see white ships sailing there!

Still have something to pursue,
Something which you wish you knew.

New York for Smith?
Georgia for Hoover?
$25,000,000 for Rosenwald.
This IS an Empire.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

New York state's labor union convention indorses Gov. Smith for president, many well known Republicans in union labor ranks leaving their party. This follows a refusal of the national union labor body to take sides in the campaign.

Gov. Smith's friends are forcing the fight in New York state, convinced that if Republicans lose in New York they will lose in the nation.

From Georgia, on the other hand, comes M. O. Dunning, said to know politics better than Webster knew spelling. At Montauk, L. I., yesterday Mr. Dunning told Carl Fisher, king of Miami; Mr. Coffin, boss of Hudson and Essex, and this writer, that Herbert Hoover would surely carry Georgia.

He complained that Republican leaders do not see their opportunities in the South, "where," said he, "several states are offered to them on a silver platter."

Results in this campaign will surprise those most deeply interested. Ask Col. Knight, of Tampa.

It pays to stick to your convictions, friends and business.

In 1921 things looked dark for Sears-Roebuck. Shrinkage in after-the-war inventory values threatened to stop preferred dividends. That would have meant nothing to Rosenwald, he could afford to wait.

But friends had bought the stock on his advice, so Mr. Rosenwald put $16,000,000 cash into the company and made it a present of 50,000 shares of its own stock, only reserving the right to buy the stock back at $100 a share.

All went well, the company bought and retired all of its preferred stock out of profits. Rosenwald bought back his 50,000 shares for $5,000,000, and made $25,000,000 cash profit.

Mr. Rosenwald, you will notice, never sells anything short, in this country. He knows that prosperity is only beginning.

Mr. Wall Street Bear, write that on your cuff.

Some goose says that Mr. Firestone, planting rubber trees in Liberia on a gigantic scale, is "guilty of imperialism," and that Herbert Hoover, as Secretary of Commerce, had a share in that dreadful enterprise.

First, Secretary Kellogg shows that Hoover had nothing to do with the Firestone enterprise.

Second, that's a pity. For Hoover could have helped, and Firestone, planting rubber trees, to fight off the British rubber monopoly, first denounced by Herbert Hoover, renders public service.

Americans not afraid to wander off a few thousands miles to compete in world affairs are needed.

This country is an empire, a big one, and going to be bigger. It needs the sort of men that Britain calls "imperially minded."

Representatives of Russia's government are in America, prepared to spend $40,000,000 for automobile trucks, tractors and other farm machinery.

That should soften our government, which, in silly, provincial fashion, invites all nations EXCEPT Russia, to sign the peace pact.

Our diplomacy reflects the angry disappointment of foolish bankers that bought Russian bonds, and lost their money. They bought from the Czar and feeble Kerensky, and most of the money stayed HERE to pay American bills.

Modern Russia says "We don't pay the Czar's debts," just as we should have said 150 years ago, "We don't pay King George's debts."

Greedy, foolish buyers of worthless bonds should not prevent sensible American business men doing business with Russia, or cause Uncle Sam to turn against an old friend. Russian buying here will make up many times over for the foolish bankers' losses on Russian bonds.

As for Russia's kind of government, that is not our business. The British wisely say, "We do business with cannibals."

Eighty years ago Francis E. Willard, noble worker for temperance, planted two chestnut trees at Evanston, Ill., saying, "As these trees grow and spread their branches, so the cause of temperance shall grow and spread throughout the world."

Both trees are dying, and the W. C. T. U. has sent for tree surgeons to save them, that they may, in November, post on the trees election returns, "as state after state repudiates the candidate who has declared himself a wet."

If those trees have been "watered" with bootleg whisky, as cynics suggest, the tree surgeons will work in vain.

The R. E. Jacks Ranch, of San Luis Obispo county, one of the largest in California, will replace many cowboys with one airplane.

The boss cowboy will ride through the air, not far up, supervising herds and spying out fence breaks.

Flying becomes more useful every day, and releasing cowboys from dull, not at all romantic work, is a blessing.

New Jersey passes sensible uniform traffic laws. Open country speed is increased from 30 to 40 miles an hour. Thirty miles is allowed in regulated city traffic.

And most important, foot traffic must obey traffic signals and cross streets at corners.

ADVANCE FOR AMERICAN FLYING SEEN IN GOEBEL'C RECORD FEAT.

Aviation is believed to have benefited materially from Arthur Goebel's non-stop flight between Los Angeles and New York. Comments emphasize the point that too little attention has been paid to flying across the continent as contrasted with public interest in overseas feats and the clipping of nearly eight hours from the record by Goebel is acclaimed as an important contribution to practical development.

It seems curious to the BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE that "in the development of aviation there has been so little interest in spanning the great American continent." The Eagle points out that "it has been five years since Kelly and Macready made the first continuous flight from the East to the West coast."

"In the past," suggests the ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, "long-distance flights been principally attempted overseas. They have called for a tremendous toll of life, as pioneering in any great development does. Only in the past few days other lives have been sacrificed. It is heartening to know that overland flights are being popularized. The hazards are less. The direct results in the interest of commercial aviation are greater."

"The part of the flight that will appeal to those who have some interest in our national defense, and who are not so idealistic as to believe that wars are gone forever,' according to the HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH, "is the thought of the speed which defensive aircraft can be shifted from one part of the country to another. Think of squadrons of pursuit and attack planes resting in their hangars on the Pacific coast, when the wires sing of impending hostilities on the Atlantic side. It is late afternoon but in a short time the ships are wheeled to the line, the motors roar and swarms of fighting craft are in the air to roll their wheels on Eastern flying fields before the sun is old the next morning."

"The hours spent in flying from Los Angeles to New York made up a period sufficiently long to offer opportunity to observe the behavior of the machine under conditions of considerable stress says the NASHVILLE BANNER, "and the flight was remarkable enough to call public attention to flying and emphasize its unusual possibilities. In other words, aviation profited by Goebel's venture and he and his companions were not taking exceedingly long chances."

"Winner of the Dole race to Hawaii last year, Goebel adds a much more important feather to his cap by this flight, because of its practical meaning" in the opnion of the NEWARK EVENING NEWS, "When two such flights as that of Hassell for Greenland and that of Goebel from coast to coast are undertaken the same week it appears heartening that stunt flights are giving way to sensible efforts to reduce American flying to the useful. Europe is ahead of us in that respect and the sooner we steady down to it the more speedily aviation in America will become the utility it should be rather than the means of self-advertising it too often is."

"If you believe you will not be able to remember that Art Goebel flew from Los Angeles to New York in 18 hours and 58 minutes without a single stop, just carry away the conviction that very soon you will be able to breakfast in New York or Cleveland and dine the same day in San Francisco or Los Angeles" suggests the CLEVELAND NEWS. The ST PAUL PIONEER PRESS emphasizes the point that "the transcontinental flier goes 50 per cent more rapidly than five years ago" drawing the conclusion: "The point of interest has changed. It now is not so much that a coast-to-coast flight has been made but that it has been made faster." Of the thrill that might have been produced a few years ago the News remarks that the American people have become so familiar with the skill of pilots and the dependability of airplanes that it may "take a flight to the moon to startle them before long."

"Now that Goebel has brought the non-stop transcontinental flight back into the limelight" the SOUTH BEND TRIBUNE predicts, "we may expect to see other fliers attempting to establish new records. His record will not stand forever, of course, because advances in airplane construction will eventually make these pioneer records less impressive. But Goebel's feat is nevertheless an important development."

"These wonderful spurts which aviation keeps making" states the NEW ORLEANS ITEM, "illustrate the marvelous and untapped possibilities which lie ahead. Precedent and previous experience in long flights are a great help in planning, but afford poor materials for predictions. Goebel bettered the time of his closest runner-up by seven hours 50 minutes and 48 seconds. That certainly amounts to what sportsmen call a total 'upset'. It reflects the amazing possibilities of aviation and it speaks loudly of the progress made in building, operating and navigating planes."

On the subject of provision for such flights the SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS says: " This flight should show the south and the southwest the need for lighted coast-to-coast airway largely parelleling the Mexican border and the Gulf. It would be practically free from fog and such perilous side winds as he encountered in India. Until that course is arranged the country's aerial communication lines will not be well balanced. It is certain that traffic over a southern transcontinental airway would pay from the outset."

Features of the flight which are listed by the LOS ANGELES TIMES are that "the amount of gasoline consumed was 300 gallons less than that of the Macready and Kelly record;" that he demonstrated the possibility of flying across a whole continent by compass reckoning alone with no radio assistance and over landmarks for a great part of the distance blotted out by fog;" that he "proved that a man in good physical condition can pilot an airplane for 18 hours at a stretch without any detriment to the human machinery and that the plane "stood up perfectly under the stress of bad weather."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

SPORTSMEN IN PRINTS.

As the United States becomes more and more the background for real sport and sportsmen the demand for prints of America's contenders upon the world's fields becomes more pronounced.

Gordon Ross is a painter of horses and riders of horses. He is a citizen of the Republic, living and having his studio in New York. Prints have been made of his paintings and command high prices. He is now completing a painting of the Virginia Gold Cup Steeplechase.

This painting shows one of the nothern Virginia straight, wired, rail fences with the full field of entries sweeping up to and over it. The well known blue dotted silks of Foxhall Keene show the way as they did for a time that afternoon when Robert Davis took the lead on Jidgie. The red silks with blue and white diamonds, colors of another New York sportsman, W. C. Langley, are close behind, on the back of R. B. Young, who was riding Town Major 2nd.

Then came six horses all in the air at one time and the rest of the field galloping after them. And contrary to much print-making traditions no horse is standing on its head and no rider is scrambling to his feet.

Mr. Ross has given an orginal treatment, entirely his own, to the rolling fields, the crude, unpainted board house, the lines of cedars along the fences, and the distant hills in the background of his Virginia landscape. It is Virginia, and it is Gordon Foss—decorative, alive, full of atmosphere.

When the work is completed, Mr. Ross will have engraved prints struck off and colored by hand and they will be highly decorative as well as historically valuable.

The print of the Virginia Gold Cup Steeplechase will continue a series begun with the Brookline Country Club meeting, executed by Mr. Ross more than a year ago. He also has done a notable series of past masters of English field sports, including Robert Smith Surtees, the creator of Jorrocks, Soapy Sponge and Facy Romford; Charles J. Apperley, better known as "Nimrod" and author of "Hunting Reminiscences," "Life and Death of John Mytton," and other hunting classics; Thomas Assheton Smith, Master of the Quron and one of the hardest riders of all times; John Mytton, the daredevil sportsman of Halston; Hugo Meynell, the father of modern hunting and Master of Foxhounds for 47 years; and a full length portrait of Peter Beckford, the scholarly author of "Thoughts on Hunting." The two first prints have been sold out and are no longer obtainable.

There are only two other artists seriously devoting themselves to the same field. They are the popular Ned King, whose father was president of a New York Bank, and who was himself educated in the atmasphere of sport, and taught as a youngster to tool a coach and four and to ride across country, and a younger contemporary, Paul Brown.

Mr. King's work frequently is to be seen on exhibition at some function as the Brookline Race Meeting, the Cathedral Horse Show or the Masters of Foxhounds' show at the New York Riding Club, and monthly he has a pen and ink sketch in the Rider and Driver. But his series of hunt plates is too little known. It should be continued and made to include all the hunts in this country.

Paul Brown has an exhibition of his drawings at Saratoga now. But a visit to the Robertson-Deschamps galleries in New York discloses the fact that the latest and most interesting examples of his work are not there.

He recently has done six dry point etchings of polo, steeplechasing and hunting, that must rank among the very best, examples from his hand. Paul Brown's future as an artist grows brighter with the passing months.

None of these men, however, is going far afield in his work. All are doing no golfing prints as has Cecil Alden and no tennis, shooting, angling and boxing prints, such as many of English sports artists have done.

The reason is that the most appreciative and the most liberal patrons by far are the equestrians. Brown has won the approval of the polo and cross country sets. King and Ross of the steeplechasing and hunting groups.

But it would seem that an even larger American public would be interested in first class, artistic sporting prints of Bobbie Jones at St. Andrews, of Tilden at Auteuil, or of the California crew at Sloten. There is no reason why only the horse loving element should foster sporting art in America. So far it has done so singlehanded.

Speaking of horses: A certain gentleman was reported to have bought a horse recently. One of his friends said in surprise; "I did not know Jack was as rich as that. He might have bought a Rolls-Royce and I would not have given the matter a moment's thought."

Do Not Neglect Bush Fruits Now Says McCulloch

Bush fruits that have provided a bountiful harvest of berries should not be neglected now, states County Agent H. R. McCulloch.

"At the same time perhaps the greatest part of next year's crop may be determined," declares McCulloch. "Put the patch into condition, remove the old fruiting canes. Then give a thorough cultivation to put the soil in the best possible condition for planting a clover crop."

Greater organic content and yield will follow the use of the clover crop. Oats or buckwheat, or even millet, may be used to a good advantage. An application of an acid phosphate will be an investment that will bring good returns. It can be broadcast or drilled in.

If the rows or bushes are properly spaced an eight-hole drill can be used. Nine to ten feet between rows is the best spacing. Sowing the fertilizer and seed and the seed of the clover crop at the same time makes the most efficient operation, states Mr. McCulloch.

LONG NECK, LIFE SAVER:

"Until this moment neither Bob nor I had noticed Cormorant's bill," broke in Mrs. Bobolink, "but now we saw that it was flat and long and had a queer curved point on the end and it was covered with little notches."

"'So you are a fisherman, too,' said I. 'We might have guessed it if you had never said a word about the buoy being a fishing post!'

"'How?' asked Captain Cormorant, curiously.

"'Why, by your feet, that are webbed, and that beak of yours, that looks so much like our old friend Kingfisher's. But would you mind telling me one thing? How did you get your beak all notched up like that?'

"'I didn't get it notched up. I was born with it that way,' croaked Captain Cormorant. 'Let me tell you, it is easy to catch a fish, but it is another matter trying to hang on to it, and many is the fish that would get away from me if my beak were not so rough that it held it from slipping.'

It was plain to be seen that the fellow didn't mind answering questions. In deed, he acted as if he really liked to talk about himself, and so I thought I would ask him something else."

But before Mrs. Bobolink had a chance to tell her question her husband interrupted her.

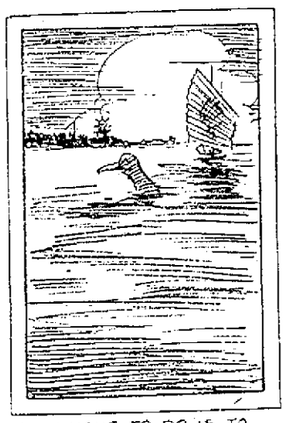
"Yes, and what do you think she asked?" cried he. "I never was so ashamed in my life—such an impertinent question!

"'Say, Captain Cormorant,' said she, 'what do you do with such a long neck, and why do you twist it about so? I should think you would feel dreadfully uncomfortable with your head so far away from your body most of the time.'

"Cormorant chuckled.

"'There are times when it is very convenient to have your head far away from your body,' said he. 'There is nothing that suits me better than being in the water. I could float about in it the livelong day! I don't mind how wet I get, but there are times when I wish to see where I am going of course, I can't see on top of the water when my eyes are underneath it. Then is when my long neck comes in handy.

"'All I have to do is to stretch my neck up as far as it will go. Out pops my head above the waves. If I see a sail coming I tell my body, to hurry and get out of the way and it does.



ALL I HAVE TO DO IS TO STRETCH MY NECK UP AS FAR AS IT WILL GO AND OUT POPS MY HEAD ABOVE THE WAVES.

If I stayed under the surface all the time the boat might creep upon me unaware, and hit me'."

Stomach and Kidney Troubles Yield to Amazing Powers of Konjola; Highly Indorses New Remedy.

MRS. LAURA EMERY

That Konjola is a medicine of real merit has been conclusively proven by the countless numbers of voluntary testimonials from people of this city and nearby towns who have been relieved of various health troubles through the use of this medicine. Hundreds of testimonials have been received by the Konjola Man at the Love and McGown Drug Store, 204 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of Konjola. One of the latest to indorse Konjola is Mrs. Laura Emery, 1116 Croton avenue, New Castle, who made the following statement:

"Konjola has proven itself to be a medicine of exceptional merit and value in my case", said Mrs. Emery. "It has restored my health and now I am going to indorse it every chance I get.

"My stomach was always bothering me and I don't believe I had eaten a meal in a long time without suffering intense misery afterward. Food always formed a heavy lump in the pit of my stomach that was very uncomfortable. Then it would ferment and cause quantities of gas to form that bloated me so much I had a hard time breathing. Due to the disordered condition of my kidneys I was subject to severe pains in the small of my back that made it impossible for me to bend over. My bladder acted so frequently that my sleep was always being disturbed. I really did not think that I would be able to stand such suffering much longer. Quite often attacks of biliousness often came over me and certainly made matters worse. Headaches and dizzy spells also seemed a part of my life. You can see that I was in a terrible shape.

"But all that is ended now and I am once more in the best of health. I owe it all to Konjola and think that every sufferer should give this medicine a trial and I am sure they would gain the same relief that I did. My stomach is in perfect condition and I am eating whatever is placed before me without suffering from one of the former ugly symptoms. The gas bloating, fermentation and pains are all ended. Konjola did this for me in a very few days and yet I feel the relief is permanent. My kidneys are also much stronger and never cause me to rise during the night. My back is free of pains and I can get around and do whatever I please without suffering the least bit. The spells of biliousness vanished some time ago and have never returned. Konjola also ended the dizzy attacks and headaches. In every way I have been benefited".

The Konjola Man is at the Love and McGown Drug Store, 204 East Washington street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this medicine.

Konjola contains juices from 22 natural plants—more than other medicines. It is a new compound that works with the sufferer's own food, restoring more healthy action to the important organs (stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels) and produces new energy and glorious health in a natural way, thru the whole inner-system.

Do Not Neglect Bush Fruits Now Says McCulloch

Bush fruits that have provided a bountiful harvest of berries should not be neglected now, states County Agent H. R. McCulloch.

"At the same time perhaps the greatest part of next year's crop may be determined," declares McCulloch. "Put the patch into condition, remove the old fruiting canes. Then give a thorough cultivation to put the soil in the best possible condition for planting a clover crop."

Greater organic content and yield will follow the use of the clover crop. Oats or buckwheat, or even millet, may be used to a good advantage. An application of an acid phosphate will be an investment that will bring good returns. It can be broadcast or drilled in.

If the rows or bushes are properly spaced an eight-hole drill can be used. Nine to ten feet between rows is the best spacing. Sowing the fertilizer and seed and the seed of the clover crop at the same time makes the most efficient operation, states Mr. McCulloch.

District Attorney In Philadelphia Ready To Expose High Police Official

Contents of Safety Deposit Box Seized And Will Be Given Grand Jury

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—The contents of a safety deposit box said to contain secret records of the rum ring operating here held the attention of Philadelphians today as the special grand jury resumed its probe into the activities of the underworld.

Announcement by District Attorney John Monaghan that he would make public the name of at least one of the chief grafters among the politicians and police officials embroiled in the underworld gangs also served to increase the interest in the probe. At least six new witnesses will face the jury today as will Max "Boo Boo" Hoff, youthful millionaire manager of prize fighters, who has been termed the "king of the racketeers" by a former chauffeur.

Vice Dens Closed

The city's speakeasies and vice dens were closed today as a result of Mayor Harry A. Mackey's fiery instructions to his police heads to close every place of lawlessness within 24 hours yesterday when he learned Monaghan had charged the police were not cooperating with him in his attempt to rid the city of criminals. The police heads also were due to offer their services to Monaghan in person today as instructed by the mayor. A few raids were staged following the mayor's demands but it was reported nearly all violators had been "tipped off" and few arrests were made.

Allege Gunmen Paid

The deposit box that was the center of much speculation today was seized and sealed by the district attorney's investigators and will be opened by the jurors some time today. Monaghan charges it contains even more startling information than the books and records seized a few days ago which revealed enormous sums had been paid to police and police officials in bribes.

Information was gleaned during the holiday which led the district attorney to start a probe today into reports that huge sums of money had been wired to Chicago to pay gunmen for work here and also for their activities in Chicago.

was sentenced to 10 days in the Lawrence county jail.

John S. Gershom, 316 Penndale avenue, Crafton, was driving his sedan toward New Castle on the Youngstown-New Castle road at Parkstown corners curve, while Horvat was driving his touring car toward Youngstown, when the accident occurred.

According to State Highway Patrolman McDermott, Horvat was evidently driving at a high rate of speed and failed to make the curve, driving straight ahead. When he applied his brakes his car skidded.

Gershom, who was accompanied by his mother, was driving at a moderate rate of speed, and expected the other car to get out of his way, with the result that his machine crashed into the Horvat car and his mother was seriously injured when the crash occurred. Parah, a companion of Horvat, was also injured in the mixup. Both machines were damaged.

The state highway patrol was notified and Patrolman McDermott answered and assumed control, taking Horvat to the office of Alderman Marshall, where he made the charge against him. Parah was also taken there and had his injury dressed at that place. Mrs. Gershom was rushed to the New Castle hospital.

Other Accidents

Bertha and Anna Bathle, 1209 Scioto street, according to the report made to the police Monday, stepped out from the curb at Mill and Washington streets to take a Cascade Park car, when the machine of Andrew Wolanin, 58 High street, hit and knocked them both down. At the direction of Wolanin they went to a physician, where it was found that Bertha had sustained injuries of the right arm, leg and hip, while Anna had sustained injuries of the right ankle and left side.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Shure of 225 East New Court street, Youngstown, O., were en route about seven o'clock last night on State street to their home when the car of J. W. Allen of R. D. No. 2, coming down the Youngstown hill on State street, crashed into their car, shoving it into the curb and damaging it to some extent. Mr. Shure was severely injured on the left hand and Mrs. Shure on both arms and the chest.

H. L. Kirkland of 1223 Barbour Place was en route east on Croton avenue Monday and making a turn into Hawthorne street, when Antoinetta De Lorenzi, aged four, 416 Hawthorne street, ran from the sidewalk into the side of his car. She was picked up and taken to the office of a physician, where it was found that she was not seriously injured.

Leo Michael, R. D. No. 2, had his car parked in the rear of the Allen Market Saturday. He was cranking his machine as Mr. and Mrs. James Finnegan of 203 Scott street walked in the rear of it to get into their machine, also parked there, when his car started backward and hit and knocked down Mrs. Finnegan. Her left leg was severely injured and she was ordered to the New Castle hospital by the attending physician.

In addition to these, many accidents of a minor character were reported to the police.

Rev. F. D. Drake, who has been pastor of the First Pentecostal Tabernacle, South street, for almost five years, has tendered his resignation to accept the pastorate of the Elim Memorial Pentecostal church at Rochester, N. Y.

Rev. Drake's resignation was effective last Sunday and he delivered his farewell message to the local congregation on Sunday evening.

Both the morning and evening services were full of spiritual power and heartfelt interest. In the morning Rev. Drake preached on "The Need of a Revival and Call of God", and in the evening he spoke on Paul's farewell to the elders of the church of Ephesus as recorded in Acts 20. Rev. and Mrs. Robert Cummings, returned missionaries from India, were present and assisted in the service. They sang the duet, "Jesus Only", very effectively. Evangelist and Mrs. Caruthers were also present and assisted in the meeting. Mrs. Drake gave a farewell talk to the Sunday school.

At the mid-week prayer meeting Rev. Nimroth of Pittsburgh will speak, and on next Sunday Rev. Fred Reidenbach of Tottenville, N. Y., will occupy the pulpit.

During the years that Rev. Drake has been pastor of the Pentecostal church the congregation has been greatly strengthened and the church has grown in spiritual power. He and Mrs. Drake leave many friends in this city who regret to see them leave for another field. They expect to leave Thursday for their new charge.

Rev. F. D. Drake Accepts Pastorate At Rochester, N. Y.

Pastor Of The Pentecostal Tabernacle Of This City To Leave For New Charge

Rev. F. D. Drake, who has been pastor of the First Pentecostal Tabernacle, South street, for almost five years, has tendered his resignation to accept the pastorate of the Elim Memorial Pentecostal church at Rochester, N. Y.

Rev. Drake's resignation was effective last Sunday and he delivered his farewell message to the local congregation on Sunday evening.

Both the morning and evening services were full of spiritual power and heartfelt interest. In the morning Rev. Drake preached on "The Need of a Revival and Call of God", and in the evening he spoke on Paul's farewell to the elders of the church of Ephesus as recorded in Acts 20. Rev. and Mrs. Robert Cummings, returned missionaries from India, were present and assisted in the service. They sang the duet, "Jesus Only", very effectively. Evangelist and Mrs. Caruthers were also present and assisted in the meeting. Mrs. Drake gave a farewell talk to the Sunday school.

At the mid-week prayer meeting Rev. Nimroth of Pittsburgh will speak, and on next Sunday Rev. Fred Reidenbach of Tottenville, N. Y., will occupy the pulpit.

During the years that Rev. Drake has been pastor of the Pentecostal church the congregation has been greatly strengthened and the church has grown in spiritual power. He and Mrs. Drake leave many friends in this city who regret to see them leave for another field. They expect to leave Thursday for their new charge.

Sessions Of High School To Open At Earlier Hour

Brief Class Periods To Be Observed On Opening Day, Wednesday

Students of the senior high school are again reminded of the earlier opening hour of the school Wednesday morning September 5 and for all days throughout the coming term.

The earlier opening time is made necessary on account of the extension of the time intervening between periods. Heretofore the students were given three minutes in which to change from one class to another but commencing with tomorrow four minutes will be allowed.

Period A, or the devotional period, will commence at 8:30 o'clock and continue until 8:45 a. m. Then after a four minute period for change of classes the first class period will get under way at 8:49 a. m.

Arrest Parents Of Large Family On Liquor Charge

Home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nich, 25 Chartes street, suspected for some time for being a liquor dispensing headquarters, was visited Saturday afternoon by Policewoman Mrs. Minnie McKibben, and Officers Thomas, McMullen, Lockard and Cramer, who were provided with a search warrant.

Nich was seated in the porch swing when the officers arrived. Mrs. McKibben advanced to the door first and was close behind Mrs. Nich as she hurried upstairs and into a front bedroom, where she pulled down a window.

Mrs. McKibben put up the window and looking out found a hot water bottle in which there was something over a quart of moonshine liquor, lying on the porch roof. Twenty-eight quarts of home brew beer, two of which were taken to the police station, were also found in the place.

They were taken to the police station and then to the office of Alderman J. Lee Cooper, where they were charged with violation of the Snyder act. They have ten children.

Zoning Appeals Board Meeting

Three Appeals Before Members Of Board At Session This Afternoon

Board of Zoning Appeals meets this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock Eastern Standard Time in the city council chamber for the purpose of considering three appeals from decisions of the city engineering office.

John Dochko, Wilder avenue, is seeking permission to erect on Wilder avenue, a B residence district and just inside the city limits, a dancing pavilion. Such a structure is not usually permitted in a B residence district.

Francesco Elisco, 519 Electric street, is seeking permission to erect an outside bakeoven on his property, located in a B residence district. This is also contrary to the zoning regulations.

H. J. Reynolds, 1026-1028 East Washington street, is seeking permission to enclose the front porch of his property at the above address, which until now has been used as a storeroom. He proposes changing the place into apartments. The permit was refused because of the change to an apartment house. This would place the apartments within ten feet of the sidewalk, while the balance of the houses are back somewhat farther.

Harry Girton, of Winchester, was fatally injured when his racing car crashed through a fence while on a practice round at the County Fair track at Winchester.

Walter Axe of Terre Haute, was killed instantly when his machine travelling more than 70 miles an hour, crashed through a fence at the Jungle Park speedway, about 30 miles north of Terre Haute, while he was leading the field in the feature 15-mile automobile race.

Sessions Of High School To Open At Earlier Hour

Brief Class Periods To Be Observed On Opening Day, Wednesday

Students of the senior high school are again reminded of the earlier opening hour of the school Wednesday morning September 5 and for all days throughout the coming term.

The earlier opening time is made necessary on account of the extension of the time intervening between periods. Heretofore the students were given three minutes in which to change from one class to another but commencing with tomorrow four minutes will be allowed.

The first bell, the teachers tardy bell, will sound at 8:15 a. m. tomorrow while the students warning bell will sound at 8:25 a. m. At 8:30 a. m. the students tardy bell will ring. Period A, or the devotional period, will commence at 8:30 o'clock and continue until 8:45 a. m. Then after a four minute period for change of classes the first class period will get under way at 8:49 a. m.

Just ten minute classes will be held tomorrow giving the students time enough to become familiar with the room. School will close at 12:30 p. m.

Hereafter during the regular schedule the dismissal bell in the afternoon will not sound until 3:30 p. m.

Arrest Parents Of Large Family On Liquor Charge

Home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nich, 25 Chartes street, suspected for some time for being a liquor dispensing headquarters, was visited Saturday afternoon by Policewoman Mrs. Minnie McKibben, and Officers Thomas, McMullen, Lockard and Cramer, who were provided with a search warrant.

Nich was seated in the porch swing when the officers arrived. Mrs. McKibben advanced to the door first and was close behind Mrs. Nich as she hurried upstairs and into a front bedroom, where she pulled down a window.

Mrs. McKibben put up the window and looking out found a hot water bottle in which there was something over a quart of moonshine liquor, lying on the porch roof. Twenty-eight quarts of home brew beer, two of which were taken to the police station, were also found in the place.

They were taken to the police station and then to the office of Alderman J. Lee Cooper, where they were charged with violation of the Snyder act. They have ten children.

Zoning Appeals Board Meeting

Three Appeals Before Members Of Board At Session This Afternoon

Board of Zoning Appeals meets this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock Eastern Standard Time in the city council chamber for the purpose of considering three appeals from decisions of the city engineering office.

John Dochko, Wilder avenue, is seeking permission to erect on Wilder avenue, a B residence district and just inside the city limits, a dancing pavilion. Such a structure is not usually permitted in a B residence district.

Francesco Elisco, 519 Electric street, is seeking permission to enclose the front porch of his property at the above address, which until now has been used as a storeroom. He proposes changing the place into apartments. The permit was refused because of the change to an apartment house. This would place the apartments within ten feet of the sidewalk, while the balance of the houses are back somewhat farther.

H. J. Reynolds, 1026-1028 East Washington street, is seeking permission to enclose the front porch of his property at the above address, which until now has been used as a storeroom. He proposes changing the place into apartments. The permit was refused because of the change to an apartment house. This would place the apartments within ten feet of the sidewalk, while the balance of the houses are back somewhat farther.

Odd Fellows Meet In Hall Tonight

First Change In Time Of Meeting In Over Thirty Years

New Castle lodge No. 195, I. O. O. F., meets this evening at eight o'clock in the lodge room of the organization on North Mill street. The interesting fact concerning the meeting is the fact that it is the first regular meeting of the lodge on other than Saturday evening in a period of approximately 40 years. Way back in the dim past there was a change made for a brief period of time, and with that exception the meetings were always held on Saturday evenings. Now the meeting has been changed to Tuesday of each week. There will be refreshments served tonight.

Await Court Move In Thompson Case, Time Limit Is Up

Former Millionaire Coal Magnate Faces Jail Term For Shortage In Funds

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 4.—Legal action was awaited today to place J. V. Thompson, former millionaire coal magnate, behind prison bars, to begin sentence for an alleged shortage of $400,000 discovered in the accounts of John Nicholls estate, of which Thompson was the executor.

After much litigation, Thompson was adjudged responsible for the shortage. He was given until Saturday to make restitution. The money has not been paid back to the Nicholls estate, and Thompson did not begin his sentence, records showed. Neither has there been an extension of time to permit him to refund the money.

One of the principal heirs to the estate is the daughter of Nicholls who married into European royalty. She is the Princess of Thurn and Taxis, a state in Austria.

Officer Fires At Fleeing Suspect

Actions Of Man In Seventh Ward Arouse Suspicions Of Police Officer

Officer John Moore was patroling on East Cherry street about eleven o'clock Sunday night, when he noticed a colored man go to the window of the Seventh ward fire department, look in at the window. This aroused the suspicion of the officer and he secreted himself on the porch of No. 6 East Cherry street to await developments.

He saw the negro then go to the jewelry store of T. C. Rainey across the street, where he took a number of keys from his pocket and tried them in the lock of the door. The negro then went to the rear of the store.

After waiting a reasonable length of time, to allow the negro an opportunity of showing his purpose, the officer went to the rear of the store and commanded the negro to put up his hands, which he did. Moore searched the negro but found nothing on him at this time.

The officer then took the negro to the patrol box and as Moore was taking down the receiver to call the central office, the negro started to run up Cherry street.

Moore shot at him and the negro fell. Moore was not certain but the indications were that the negro had been hit. The negro got up and continued his flight. City and county officers covered the Seventh ward district also the railroad tracks to Covert's station but did not find him.

At the point where the negro fell after Moore fired at him, a twenty-five calibre revolver was found lying on the ground. The negro is described as being small, five feet six inches in height, weighing about 135 pounds and wearing a brown suit and soft hat which was too large for him. He was about 23 years of age.

Post Office Ball Team Is Defeated

Members of the New Castle post-office team met the Sharon postal aggregation at Croton field yesterday afternoon in a spirited contest, but the results of the engagement were not as heartening as many of the other scores which the local men have achieved. The end saw the figures standing at 10-4 in favor of the Sharonites.

Saturday afternoon the local crew journeyed to Youngstown to meet a team composed of Ohio postal clerks, who were in attendance at the annual convention of the Ohio State Postal Clerks' association. The game was called in the seventh inning, owing to the appearance of special speakers for the occasion. When the game was called the score stood 11-8 in the Ohio boys' favor.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

win a place and money. Send him a telegram tomorrow. If he knows New Castle is thinking of him, it will help a lot. The first ten miles are the hardest, remember.

New Castle made the transitition from daylight savings time to Eastern Standard time on Saturday night without confusion. It is the general concensus of opinion that the observance of daylight savings time during the three months period, as observed this year was much better than for the five months' period, as during previous years. The three months observed for daylight savings time this summer did not interfere with the school system, and did not prolong the time savings era until late in the summer.

While Monday was observed as a holiday by hundreds in this city. It was just another Monday for many of the housewives of the city. It was Monday, and Monday was wash day just the same, for the weekly wash was hanging out on the line in many backyards about the city.

Investigation being made here as to be the possible presence of the Japanese beetle is one that should be taken seriously. The havoc wrought by this pest in the eastern end of the state should be warning to take every precaution to prevent the pest getting a foothold in this district.

Pa Newc didn't know whether to swell up with home town pride, or to simply be chagrined and let it go at that when he stepped into one of the largest theatres in New York recently and discovered that the feature film being presented to an audience of 5,000 was one he had seen in a New Castle theatre several weeks previously.

Vacation time is over for the army of New Castle school children. The school bells will ring again on Wednesday morning, and the pupils will return to their studies. Most of the country schools opened today, although some of the township schools have been in operation for a week or more.

With the opening of school, and the placing in use of the new George Washington Junior high school, another school safety zone has been required for Highland avenue traffic, the intersection of Euclid and Highland. Much of the school children traffic will cross Highland at this intersection.

Golden rod is in full bloom. Many fields are to be noted in the city and adjacent. Hay fever sufferers are not enthused.

Work is progressing on the improvement of the road leading from Pulaski to West Middlesex, which was recently made part of the state highway system.

Quite a number of New Castle folks were noted at a community chicken dinner at the Presbyterian shurch at Pulaski last night. It was some dinner. Everybody turned in and helped to put the affair over. Even Doc Taylor was noted in the kitchen lending a hand in the dish washing.

Bushels of elderberries are being gathered from the fields in Lawrence county at the present time. The crop is reported as super abundant.

vessels, seen and unseen in the interior. He also addressed the congregation in English. The sermon of the day was delivered by Mgr. Orzechowski of Cleveland, Ohio.

For the happy occasion, some thirty five priests from out of the city and within the city attended. Following the dedication exercises a banquet was tendered them in the rectory with Rev. Stancelewski as host. The dinner for the parishioners was held on the church lawn.

One of the features of the day's program was the musical program which was in charge of Miss Marie A. Dutkiewicz, the church chorister. Masses that were sung for the first time in Chicago, Ill., at the Eucharistic Congress were used and under the direction of Miss Dutkiewicz the choir carried out its part of the program in a most creditable manner.

School Opening Today.

Today the school of S. S. Philip and James is opening but the splendid success of the dedication on Monday is still being felt. From every standpoint it was most successful and Rev. Stancelewski, the pastor, is most grateful for the splendid co-operation of the people of his own congregation and the priests and people of the neighboring congregations.

Through the courtesy of the Carnegie Steel Company the church was tastefully decorated with ferns and palms and flags added a touch of color to the ensemble. Rev. Stancelewski wishes to thank the Carnegie Company, and all those men and women who so splendidly labored that the dedication might be the success it was.

MAKES INQUIRY FOR MISSING BROTHER

W. L. Medland of Mineral Ridge, O., made inquiry of the police here Saturday for his missing brother, Carl Medland, who left home August 2. He was driving an Ohio license car, 782-125, at the time of his disappearance. The police here found that this was the car found abandoned by Officer Hanna on August 4 and placed in a garage here.

A playlet by some of the children was given as a final program for the playground this year. Quite a number were on hand to witness this.

Await Court Move In Thompson Case, Time Limit Is Up

Former Millionaire Coal Magnate Faces Jail Term For Shortage In Funds

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 4.—Legal action was awaited today to place J. V. Thompson, former millionaire coal magnate, behind prison bars, to begin sentence for an alleged shortage of $400,000 discovered in the accounts of John Nicholls estate, of which Thompson was the executor.

After much litigation, Thompson was adjudged responsible for the shortage. He was given until Saturday to make restitution. The money has not been paid back to the Nicholls estate, and Thompson did not begin his sentence, records showed. Neither has there been an extension of time to permit him to refund the money.

One of the principal heirs to the estate is the daughter of Nicholls who married into European royalty. She is the Princess of Thurn and Taxis, a state in Austria.

Officer Fires At Fleeing Suspect

Actions Of Man In Seventh Ward Arouse Suspicions Of Police Officer

Officer John Moore was patroling on East Cherry street about eleven o'clock Sunday night, when he noticed a colored man go to the window of the Seventh ward fire department, look in at the window. This aroused the suspicion of the officer and he secreted himself on the porch of No. 6 East Cherry street to await developments.

He saw the negro then go to the jewelry store of T. C. Rainey across the street, where he took a number of keys from his pocket and tried them in the lock of the door. The negro then went to the rear of the store.

After waiting a reasonable length of time, to allow the negro an opportunity of showing his purpose, the officer went to the rear of the store and commanded the negro to put up his hands, which he did. Moore searched the negro but found nothing on him at this time.

The officer then took the negro to the patrol box and as Moore was taking down the receiver to call the central office, the negro started to run up Cherry street.

Moore shot at him and the negro fell. Moore was not certain but the indications were that the negro had been hit. The negro got up and continued his flight. City and county officers covered the Seventh ward district also the railroad tracks to Covert's station but did not find him.

At the point where the negro fell after Moore fired at him, a twenty-five calibre revolver was found lying on the ground. The negro is described as being small, five feet six inches in height, weighing about 125 pounds and wearing a brown suit and soft hat which was too large for him. He was about 23 years of age.

Post Office Ball Team Is Defeated

Members of the New Castle post-office team met the Sharon postal aggregation at Croton field yesterday afternoon in a spirited contest, but the results of the engagement were not as heartening as many of the other scores which the local men have achieved. The end saw the figures standing at 10-4 in favor of the Sharonites.

Saturday afternoon the local crew journeyed to Youngstown to meet a team composed of Ohio postal clerks, who were in attendance at the annual convention of the Ohio State Postal Clerks' association. The game was called in the seventh inning, owing to the appearance of special speakers for the occasion. When the game was called the score stood 11-8 in the Ohio boys' favor.

Officers Lockard, Letera, Criswell and Thompson answered the call and found that William Chapman, negro, had been seriously cut in the left side with a knife by Henry Roach, negro, No. 11 East Race street, during an argument. Roach had disappeared when the officers arrived and Chapman was removed to the central police station and then to the Shenango Valley hospital. The police are seeking Roach.

win a place and money. Send him a telegram tomorrow. If he knows New Castle is thinking of him, it will help a lot. The first ten miles are the hardest, remember.

New Castle made the transitition from daylight savings time to Eastern Standard time on Saturday night without confusion. It is the general concensus of opinion that the observance of daylight savings time during the three months period, as observed this year was much better than for the five months' period, as during previous years. The three months observed for daylight savings time this summer did not interfere with the school system, and did not prolong the time savings era until late in the summer.

While Monday was observed as a holiday by hundreds in this city. It was just another Monday for many of the housewives of the city. It was Monday, and Monday was wash day just the same, for the weekly wash was hanging out on the line in many backyards about the city.

Investigation being made here as to be the possible presence of the Japanese beetle is one that should be taken seriously. The havoc wrought by this pest in the eastern end of the state should be warning to take every precaution to prevent the pest getting a foothold in this district.

Pa Newc didn't know whether to swell up with home town pride, or to simply be chagrined and let it go at that when he stepped into one of the largest theatres in New York recently and discovered that the feature film being presented to an audience of 5,000 was one he had seen in a New Castle theatre several weeks previously.

Vacation time is over for the army of New Castle school children. The school bells will ring again on Wednesday morning, and the pupils will return to their studies. Most of the country schools opened today, although some of the township schools have been in operation for a week or more.

With the opening of school, and the placing in use of the new George Washington Junior high school, another school safety zone has been required for Highland avenue traffic, the intersection of Euclid and Highland. Much of the school children traffic will cross Highland at this intersection.

Golden rod is in full bloom. Many fields are to be noted in the city and adjacent. Hay fever sufferers are not enthused.

Work is progressing on the improvement of the road leading from Pulaski to West Middlesex, which was recently made part of the state highway system.

Quite a number of New Castle folks were noted at a community chicken dinner at the Presbyterian shurch at Pulaski last night. It was some dinner. Everybody turned in and helped to put the affair over. Even Doc Taylor was noted in the kitchen lending a hand in the dish washing.

Bushels of elderberries are being gathered from the fields in Lawrence county at the present time. The crop is reported as super abundant.

vessels, seen and unseen in the interior. He also addressed the congregation in English. The sermon of the day was delivered by Mgr. Orzechowski of Cleveland, Ohio.

For the happy occasion, some thirty five priests from out of the city and within the city attended. Following the dedication exercises a banquet was tendered them in the rectory with Rev. Stancelewski as host. The dinner for the parishioners was held on the church lawn.

One of the features of the day's program was the musical program which was in charge of Miss Marie A. Dutkiewicz, the church chorister. Masses that were sung for the first time in Chicago, Ill., at the Eucharistic Congress were used and under the direction of Miss Dutkiewicz the choir carried out its part of the program in a most creditable manner.

School Opening Today.

Today the school of S. S. Philip and James is opening but the splendid success of the dedication on Monday is still being felt. From every standpoint it was most successful and Rev. Stancelewski, the pastor, is most grateful for the splendid co-operation of the people of his own congregation and the priests and people of the neighboring congregations.

Through the courtesy of the Carnegie Steel Company the church was tastefully decorated with ferns and palms and flags added a touch of color to the ensemble. Rev. Stancelewski wishes to thank the Carnegie Company, and all those men and women who so splendidly labored that the dedication might be the success it was.

Carnegie Company Playground Ends Season's Program

Hundreds Of Children Entertained During Summer At Playground

The gates of the local Carnegie playground on South Jefferson street were closed to the children of the neighborhood for the final time this year on Saturday evening, September 1.

Although the formal closing program of the community recreational center occurred on Wednesday evening of last week when the recognition banquet for the children was held, it was not until Saturday night that the grounds were actually closed for the season.

A playlet by some of the children was given as a final program for the playground this year. Quite a number were on hand to witness this.

Post Cards From Europe

by William Ivy

PARIS, Sept. 4.—M. Paul Painleve, minister of war, in a recent address to his constituents on the Briand-Kellogg pact, expressed the hope that besides placing war outside the law, the nations of the world would also put it out of the dictionary.

"I hope," said M. Painleve, "that I shall some day be known, not as minister of war, but as minister of peace." (Thus unconsciously plagiarizing a probably long forgotten idea of Elbert Hubbard.)

When you think of it, it does seem anachronistic— particularly in the face of the modern peace movement—for nations to go on having "war" departments. Some countries, indeed, notably Norway, have abolished the term. The combined military and naval administration in Norway is called the "ministry of defense."

Mr. Painleve's suggestion, however, has not been very enthusiastically received in France, particularly by the conservative press. The French are not yet persuaded that the Kellogg scheme—although adapted from a proposal of M. Briand—means the end of war, and they don't see that it will help matters any to change the name of the war department to "peace department." Furthermore they pointed out that M. Aristide Briand thinks his department—the foreign office— is the real peace department.

The French are not very fond of verbal niceties in such matters, anyway.

"If we wanted to go on with this game of paradoxes," one conservative commentator remarks, "we should have to change the old Latin proverb to: 'Si vis bellum, para pacem.' " ("If you want war, prepare for peace.")

And, he adds, the proverb is just in the reversed form: there is no surer way to promote war than to indulge in too much pacifist propaganda.

Chicago Chatter

BY IONE QUINBY

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—You can't tell whether a hotel is doing business or not in Chicago this year, for as soon as the nine o'clock gong strikes the hotel "lamp" lighter goes around lighting up every other empty room. One downtown hotel had two floors empty not long ago, but no one would have surmised it because they were lighted up just the same as when business was good. (Moral: Keep the lights going so the cockeyed world won't know how dark things are!)

There's more truth than fiction in bluffing it out. Bell Livingstone, belonging to the great Matrimonial Trinity—of which Ganna Walska and Peggy Joyce are members—is a good example. Belle blew into Chicago her old home town, recenty, with four scrapped husbands, two children and a varied career to her credit since she was here last. She has been the toast of two continents, the owner of one of the most celebrated chateaus in France, a Broadway star (long before she turned 50), and mistress of millions in the interim, but she came back broke. Did she weep over the shoulders of her old Chicago friends? She did not. She dressed up in her Parisian frocks, invited the home towners to call and regaled them with her memories of a joyous life. And they're ready to give her the town now because she made them laugh instead of weep.

Belle has the faculty that makes for the only real happiness in a city of four million. She knows how to talk everybody's language! It doesn't make any difference whether it's the bell hop at the Palmer House who brings messages to her suite, the white-haired financier on LaSalle street, the boys who tell bedtime stories to their youngsters now, but used to dance in her home between battles in 1918, the down and outer, or the members of the upper crust—she clicks with them all. There are thousands who speak fluently in Italian, German, French and Russian, but few who speak every man's language! More people lose heart in a big city because they have no one to speak to understandingly than for any one reason.

The world does change. One day not long ago Norma Talmadge came to town and got off at the Englewood station in order—so she said afterward—to avoid the limelight. And then, of course, there are Hoover, Lindbergh and Tunney, who haven't appeared overly keen to get personal publicity. Lunching the other day with two or three of the fourth estate, we got to talking about the old-fashioned celebrity who used to wear his name on his hatband like Boswell, or carried an identifying flower in his hand like Wilde did for a time, or had an assistant to point an admiring index finger at the "master" as Ibsen did. But, of course, that was before celebrities left everything to press agents!

Sentiment is still rampant in Chicago, where most persons suppose business is conducted on a cold business basis only. In Marshall Field's store, where almost everything under the sun may be purchased, it is impossible to buy a package of cigarettes, because the late John G. Shedd, one of the heads of the store, disapproved of women smoking.

It is all right for almost anybody to strike while the iron is hot but the laundress should never do it.—Louisville Times.

Results Were So Amazing Almost Doubted Facts!

New Castle Couple Vastly Benefited By Ten Herbs, Husband States.

"I never had any faith in medicines until my wife started using Ten Herbs, and then the results were so amazing that I could hardly believe the facts," was the recent statement of Mr. Benjamin F. Kennedy, 2215

MR. BENJAMIN F. KENNEDY

Hartman Street, New Castle, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicines to crowds of men and women.

Finally my wife persuaded me to try your medicine, and I am glad that she did, as my work is heavy and I was not feeling very well," continued Mr. Kennedy, who is an iron-worker. "My digestion was gradually becoming weaker, and I would bring home the dinner pail almost as full as when I took it to work. I became so nervous that a good night's sleep was a rare thing. Then I began to feel worn-out.

"After using the first bottle of Ten Herbs, my appetite returned so that I was glad to empty my dinner pail. My digestion was improved. Now, when the shades of night fall, I am glad to get to bed, as I have sound, restful sleep. I really feel better in every way, and shall continue using your medicine until my whole system is built up. I am glad to recommend Ten Herbs as a health-restorer and invigorator."

That hundreds throughout this section are being helped back to better health is shown by the reports that daily are reaching the Ten Herbs Man. Many are telling how this new herbal compound relieved them of such ailing conditions as indigestion, gas, bloating, biliousness, dizziness, headaches, nervousness, constipation, pains and aches in the back, rheumatism, neuritis and weak, run-down feeling.

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

NEW WILMINGTON, Sept. 4.—With a force of 11 instructors the New Wilmington public school opened its first semester this morning. Short class sessions marked the procedure of the morning with the most time being devoted to the arrangements of student's curicula in the high school.

Featuring the beginning of this year's session of the high school is the initiation and use of the new commercial course established with new equipment in the course of the summer months. The subjects in this new course have already become so popular among the students that the classes are overflowing.

Beside Principal G. E. Nord and Vice Principal Mae McKelvy the faculty of the high school includes R. Olsen, Miss E. Winger, Miss L. Berbower, Miss M. Thorpe and Miss L. Porter. The teachers of the grades are Miss C. Williamson, Mrs. H. Wilson, Miss Mary Rich and Miss L. McElroy.

As preliminary work to the new $12,500 disposal plant to be put in here, the Minteer and Anderson Co. have started excavation work on the site east of town. The same contractors also started work this morning on the bridge to be put in on the Sharon-New Wilmington road.

Leaving here yesterday morning Dr. S. G. Hart started on the first lap of his trip to the mission field in India. Dr. Hart is enroute to New York by automobile with his son Dr. Hugh Hart, M. D. and will leave there on September 6.

Another missionary who has been spending his furlough in New Wilmington and who will sail on the same boat with Dr. Hart is Rev. R. Maxwell who also left the college town yesterday for New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Robinson and their son Paul and their daughter Pauline are at present touring the east by automobile. On this vacation trip they expect to touch Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Harrisburg and Gettysburg.

Breaking the quiet of the New Wilmington streets early yesterday morning were the local Boy Scouts who put out the flags to mark the holiday.

Post Cards From Europe

by William Ivy

PARIS, Sept. 4.—M. Paul Painleve, minister of war, in a recent address to his constituents on the Briand-Kellogg pact, expressed the hope that besides placing war outside the law, the nations of the world would also put it out of the dictionary.

"I hope," said M. Painleve, "that I shall some day be known, not as minister of war, but as minister of peace." (Thus unconsciously plagiarizing a probably long forgotten idea of Elbert Hubbard.)

When you think of it, it does seem anachronistic— particularly in the face of the modern peace movement—for nations to go on having "war" departments. Some countries, indeed, notably Norway, have abolished the term. The combined military and naval administration in Norway is called the "ministry of defense."

Mr. Painleve's suggestion, however has not been very enthusiastically received in France, particularly by the conservative press. The French are not yet persuaded that the Kellogg scheme—although adapted from a proposal of M. Briand—means the end of war, and they don't see that it will help matters any to change the name of the war department to "peace department." Furthermore they pointed out that M. Aristide Briand thinks his department—the foreign office— is the real peace department.

The French are not very fond of verbal niceties in such matters, anyway.

"If we wanted to go on with this game of paradoxes," one conservative commentator remarks, "we should have to change the old Latin proverb to: 'Si vis bellum, para pacem.' " ("If you want war, prepare for peace.")

And, he adds, the proverb is just in the reversed form; there is no surer way to promote war than to indulge in too much pacifist propaganda.

Chicago Chatter

BY IONE QUINBY

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—You can't tell whether a hotel is doing business or not in Chicago this year, for as soon as the nine o'clock gong strikes the hotel "lamp" lighter goes around lighting up every other empty room. One downtown hotel had two floors empty not long ago, but no one would have surmised it because they were lighted up just the same as when business was good. (Moral: Keep the lights going so the cock-eyed world won't know how dark things are!)

There's more truth than fiction in bluffing it out. Bell Livingstone, belonging to the great Matrimonial Trinity—of which Ganna Walska and Peggy Joyce are members—is a good example. Belle blew into Chicago her old home town, recenty, with four scrapped husbands, two children and a varied career to her credit since she was here last. She has been the toast of two continents, the owner of one of the most celebrated chateaus in France, a Broadway star (long before she turned 50), and mistress of millions in the interim, but she came back broke. Did she weep over the shoulders of her old Chicago friends? She did not. She dressed up in her Parisian frocks, invited the home towners to call and regaled them with her memories of a joyous life. And they're ready to give her the town now because she made them laugh instead of weep.

Belle has the faculty that makes for the only real happiness in a city of four million. She knows how to talk everybody's language! It doesn't make any difference whether it's the bell hop at the Palmer House who brings messages to her suite, the white-haired financier on LaSalle street, the boys who tell bedtime stories to their youngsters now, but used to dance in her home between battles in 1918, the down and outer, or the members of the upper crust—she clicks with them all. There are thousands who speak fluently in Italian, German, French and Russian, but few who speak every man's language. More people lose heart in a big city because they have no one to speak to understandingly than for any one reason.

The world does change. One day not long ago Norma Talmadge came to town and got off at the Englewood station in order—so she said afterward—to avoid the limelight. And then, of course, there are Hoover, Lindbergh and Tunney, who haven't appeared overly keen to get personal publicity. Lunching the other day with two or three of the fourth estate, we got to talking about the old-fashioned celebrity who used to wear his name on his hatband like Boswell, or carried an identifying flower in his hand like Wilde did for a time, or had an assistant to point an admiring index finger at the "master" as Ibsen did. But, of course, that was before celebrities left everything to press agents!

Sentiment is still rampant in Chicago, where most persons suppose business is conducted on a cold business basis only. In Marshall Field's store, where almost everything under the sun may be purchased, it is impossible to buy a package of cigarettes, because the late John G. Shedd, one of the heads of the store, disapproved of women smoking.

It is all right for almost anybody to strike while the iron is hot but the laundress should never do it.—Louisville Times.

Governor Smith Plans To Speak In Pennsylvania

Friends Believe Governor Has Chance In Keystone State

By RAYMOND L. BORST
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 4.—While it may seem almost incredible to Republican leaders, Gov. Al Smith has high hope of carrying Pennsylvania in the coming presidential election, his close friends revealed today.

So confident is the Democratic nominee that he has at least an even chance of winning Pennsylvania's 38 electoral votes that he is planning to deliver two and possibly three of the major speeches of his campaign in that state.

Shuns California.

Unless he changes his mind at the last minute, the governor will not include California in his campaign itinerary, although he is being strongly urged to go to the Pacific Coast by National Chairman John J. Raskob. Smith is said to have decided to leave Albany a week from Sunday on his first trip into the west, but it is not expected his itinerary will be announced for several days. It is barely possible that he may make his first major campaign speech in Omaha on Tuesday, September 18.

The governor will meet with members of his cabinet this week so that he can get the state's business in shape for the campaign. He also plans to get the executive budget under way before he begins his tour.

The nominee spent a quiet week-end and holiday at the executive mansion with William F. Kenny, millionaire New York contractor as his only guest. In between the showers he took a couple of short automobile rides.

Governor Smith Plans To Speak In Pennsylvania

Friends Believe Governor Has Chance In Keystone State

By RAYMOND I. BORST
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 4.—While it may seem almost incredible to Republican leaders, Gov. Al Smith has high hope of carrying Pennsylvania in the coming presidential election, his close friends revealed today.

So confident is the Democratic nominee that he has at least an even chance of winning Pennsylvania's 38 electoral votes that he is planning to deliver two and possibly three of the major speeches of his campaign in that state.

Shuns California.

Unless he changes his mind at the last minute, the governor will not include California in his campaign itinerary, although he is being strongly urged to go to the Pacific Coast by National Chairman John J. Raskob. Smith is said to have decided to leave Albany a week from Sunday on his first trip into the west, but it is not expected his itinerary will be announced for several days. It is barely possible that he may make his first major campaign speech in Omaha on Tuesday, September 18.

The governor will meet with members of his cabinet this week so that he can get the state's business in shape for the campaign. He also plans to get the executive budget under way before he begins his tour.

The nominee spent a quiet week-end and holiday at the executive mansion with William F. Kenny, millionaire New York contractor as his only guest. In between the showers he took a couple of short automobile rides.

Father Of Murdered Carrick Doctor Announces $1,000 Reward For Word Of Slayers

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 4.—Henry A. Dapper, father of the murdered Carrick physician, Dr. Harry R. Dapper, slain while on a fake sick call two weeks ago, has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of his son's murderer, it was announced by county detectives today.

This makes the total reward equal $1,250, the $250 was recently offered by the Pittsburgh Motor club.

Authorities still were apparently up against a blank wall in their search for Dr. Dapper's killer.

Seek To Locate Missing Papers In Man's Death

Valuable Papers In Connection With Slaying Are Reported Gone

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Mystery surrounding the death of William L. D'Olier, Queens contractor found shot to death early Sunday, was heightened today as investigators started a search for a sheaf of documents held by D'Olier and relating to the $16,000,000 Queens sewer scandal.

D'Olier was the chief witness for the state in the prosecution of the sewer gang. He was known to have documents relating to the sewer scandal and had taken them from his office safe 16 hours before his death. These papers now are missing.

Jack Dempsey May Again Don Gloves, Plans Statement

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept 4.—Jack Dempsey may peep out of the grease paint long enough to declare himself back in the running for the world's heavyweight championship. This, anyhow was the intimation taken from his announcement that he would have something "important" to say to local sports writers at his hotel before nightfall. Even Dempsey realizes that the only important announcement he can make in regard to himself is one having to do with his immediate intentions in connection with boxing.

Faced with a "yes or no" question about boxing again, while he was making up in his dressing room for premiere of his show last night. Dempsey was saved the embarrassment of answering when his press agent interposed with this insignificant remark:

Answer Reserved.

"Mr. Dempsey is reserving his answer to that question for the sports writers tomorrow."

In view of the fact that the Mr. Dempsey he was discussing had answered that question in the negative at least a hundred times out of a possible ninety-nine or something during the last six months it is assumed that this worthy fellow is not imbued with the notion that anyone wishes to hear him say no again. The man, in other words always must bite the dog very severely to get his name in an eight column banner line for the late sports extras. The other well known exfighter Mr. Tunney may be wearied by the daily interview, but if there ever was any danger of Mr. Dempsey reaching this stage the crisis passed when he signed a theatrical contract. Just at the moment Mr. Dempsey would rather have a banner line than both Mr. Tuney and Dave Barry on the floor together with St. Vitus to do the counting.

Some persons are intimating today that there is a singular connection between Dempsey's important announcement and the fact that his show has just opened. These individuals, always ready to impugn another's motives declare that Mr. Dempsey feels he has something to say because now is the time for all good men including declasse prize fighters to have something to say. It is hinted in this connection that his announcement will be an innocuous affair, ranging somewhere in between definite affirmation of his return to the ring and actual negation of the intention.

My opinion has been that Dempsey will decide to fight, sooner or later, pessimism being one of the outstanding virtues of my very lovable disposition. He will decide to fight, first, because he has almost nothing against money, second, because Mr. Tunney no longer is identified with the profession; third because he has almost nothing against money.

Referee Stops Fight In Eighth

Three Knockouts Feature Fistic Card At Jolly Bowl

DICKERSON, DUGAN COMPTON, ELMO WIN

By ED. FRITZ

FISTIC hungry who jammed into Jolly bowl last night witnessed one of the greatest fight calendars of the season and before they had left the wooden saucer had witnessed two knockouts, one technical knockout and two other good battles which went the limit.

In the main bout, scheduled to go ten rounds, the Filipino executioner, Johnny Datto won from the game Jack McFarland in the eighth when Referee Joe Keally, Pittsburgh, stopped the fight as McFarland was down and out in Datto's corner.

Although McFarland was defeated he has nothing to feel sorry over as his showing here last night fully demonstrated that he is without a peer in gameness and aggressiveness and the stagefright that palls many of Datto's opponents was not in his makeup.

McFarland Game

He was knocked down in the first but came up without a count and after Datto hurt his right hand in the third, tore into the Filipino with the suddenness of a volcano and he was only stopped when human endurance gave way and his mind became a blank in the eighth.

It was a fight from the first bell to the time that Referee Joe Keally stepped between the game Irishman who was on the floor for the second time in the eighth and the Filipino whose face was bloody.

When the bout started someone yelled: 'Another setup," but before the words had left the fan's mouth McFarland was across the ring and had landed a right uppercut on the Filipino. From then on it was fight for blood.

Datto was going big guns in the third when he crashed a right to McFarland's head and after the bout showed a badly swollen hand as the result of the punch. He tumbled McFarland for nine in the fifth, but McFarland didn't let this bother him.

Takes Seventh

He came back and although he took a beating he kept coming in and in the seventh round it looked as though the Filipino had tired punching the Irishman and that Jack had a chance to win. However the merciless and game Filipino came back in the eighth.

He rushed from his corner and rocked McFarland with right and left to the head but Jack fought him to the ropes. Datto sent a right to the chin that knocked McFarland through the ropes. He crawled back into the ring and got up at the toll of nine.

Datto Wins

Johnny fiddled McFarland around so he could get a clean shot and McFarland surprised him by landing a hard right on the chin. Suddenly the Filipino's right shot out and down went Jack in Datto's corner. He was out, cold and the referee stopped the fight.

Andy Stahura and Mickie Dugan fought a great six round bout and the decision went to Dugan. Stahura started off well and took the first two rounds but the tricky boy with the Irish name outstepped Stahura, solved his style and was given the decision.

Walter Dickerson and Jess Hoak, welterweights, met, head-on in the first six round go and it found Hoak swinging like a rope and weaving like a lace-maker. He was dangerous every second and Dickerson fought cautiously.

Compton Is Fast

In the second session Dickerson got inside Hoak's swinging arms and commenced jolting the McKeesport boy around the chin. He made Hoak weak and when Jess rushed in sent a right uppercut to the chin that knocked him out for five minutes.

Georgie Compton, Rochester, stopped Sammy Busang, Monaca, in the second round of a thrilling fight. Compton sent Busang into the ropes in the first and dropped him twice in the third and he was still down when ten was tolled.

Elmo Takes Decision

Elmo Clark fought his customary battle last night and as a result Elmo The Mighty holds a four round decision over Harry Miller of McKeesport. The battle was filled with swings and punches and the decision which Elmo won was earned.

George Chip refereed the second and fourth bouts while Joe Keally acted as third man in the first, third and fifth bouts. Tommy Jones and Tommy Blake were the judges and Pete Capitola the timekeeper. Twenty five hundred fans witnessed the battles.

Many a man would have a better appreciation of his home were a real estate salesman to write an advertisement offering it for sale.

Youthful Tennis Stars Triumph In International Play

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Renewed faith and confidence in the future of American lawn tennis, which were first inspired by the brilliant victory of George Lott and John Hennessy in the national doubles championship at Boston on Saturday, is further evident today as a result of the decisive triumph of five matches to three scored by the U. S. forces over England in the final day's play of the International team match yesterday.

By the eleventh hour switch that put John Vanryn, former Princeton captain, and Wilmer Allison of Fort Worth, Texas, on the American team in place of Lott and Hennessy, it was believed that America's chances went aglimmering, yet no more brilliant play could have been asked for than that turned in by Vanryn who advanced to the greatest heights he has ever known in lawn tennis.

Thirteen Homers Hit Monday, Both Leagues Active

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Thirteen home runs have been added to major league records today as the result of the seven double-headers played yesterday. Five of the home runs were scored in American League games, while the Nationals piled up eight.

Of the seven doubleheaders six ended in clean sweeps, only the New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox getting an even break.

Eight double bills were scheduled for the Labor Day program, but the Brooklyn Robins and the Boston Braves were shut in by the rain in Boston.

Twilight Teams Battle Tonight In Series Game

Wampum And Ryantown Play At Wampum Tonight In Second Game Of Series

Tonight at 6 o'clock at the Wampum field the Wampum and Ryantown teams of the Twilight League will stage their second game of the series for the championship of the county. The first game of the series went to Ryantown Saturday by a score of 18 to 10.

The Wampum team was handicapped Saturday by the loss of three of their star players, Dombeck, Grinnen and Fitzgerald, who were with the Ellwood City team in the Beaver County loop. With these three men back in the lineup tonight, the Wampum team hopes to even the series.

Ragged Game Saturday

On Saturday afternoon at Centennial field, the Ryantown team took a lopsided contest. Lintz went to the knoll for the Ryantown team and pitched a steady game. Boone started for Wampum but did not prove effective and gave way to Ward. Ward later gave way to McIntyre and Ryantown found all three of the Wampum twirlers easy to hit.

The game Saturday was very ragged and in spots resembled sandlot baseball, the boys were just a little nervous and after the excitement of the championship wears off the teams should play better baseball.

Manager Elmer Robinson of Ryantown will use Russo on the slab tonight, while Manager Robertson of Wampum will likely send either Boone of McIntyre back against the National leaguers.

The umpires assigned to handle the game tonight by Commissioner Walther are Hudson, McCann and Fahey.

Start Football Practice At Westminster College: Large Squad Is Out

(By KASEY SWISHER)

Thirty candidates for the Westminster college football team reported to Head Coach "Dike" Beede at the Westminster field in New Wilmington yesterday and celebrated Labor Day in a fitting manner by indulging in 40 minutes of light drills and calisthenics and a run of a mile to top off the afternoon's work.

Ten or more additional candidates for the 1928 team will report to training camp today, giving Beede and Assistant Coach John Lawther at least 40 men from which to select a team.

The men who reported yesterday included the following letter men and former substitutes: Captain Joseph Furno, tackle, Elizabeth; James McQuiston, quarter, Cochranton; William Armour, tackle, Sharon; Joseph Dombrowski, tackle, Elizabeth; Karl Elers, tackle, Oakmont; Adrian Dible, half, Verona; William Crowell, end, Sharon; Marshall Fisher, guard, Youngstown; Emmett Tweedie, end, Turtle Creek; Paul Campbell, half, Pittsburgh; Stepehen Havrilla, full, North Braddock; and Russell Boone, center, Turtle Creek.

Freshmen candidates who reported yesterday were: R. V. Meredith, full back, Ford City; Homer Dishong, guard, Johnstown; Fred Palmer, half, Towanda; James Smalley, end, Elizabeth; Harold Forsha, end, Turtle Creek; Harry Michaels, guard, Turtle Creek; Charles Abraham, end, Oakmont; William Frack, half, Clairton; Joseph Pipoly, end, Struthers; Joseph Ledger, quarter, Turtle Creek; Clarence West, center, Blairsville; Marvin Clark, guard, Edenburg; Michael Kocheran, guard, Pittsburgh; Richard Fuller, half, Erie; and William Lowry, tackle, Ligonier.

Starting today, a morning practice session at 10 o'clock and another session in the afternoon at 2:30 will give the boys plenty of opportunity to sweat off any fat gained through summer lassitude. This schedule will be continued until the opening of college September 19, when but one practice each day will be possible.

In addition to the men who reported yesterday, Joseph Smith, James Lauder, Charles Ayers, Gerry Sweet, Emmanuel Krueger, and Herb Miller, all of last year's squad, will report today. Some freshmen candidates unable to report for the first session will also join the squad.

While the squad did not have an opportunity of showing much in the line of football tactics at yesterday's practice, it can be seen that Westminster will be represented by a sturdy team. Many of the new men are husky and rangy players who should make things rather interesting both for the boys who had varsity berths last year and for opposing teams.

Members of the squad are quartered in the Delta Phi Sigma, Kappa Phi Lambda, Theta Upsilon Omega, and Phi Pi Phi fraternity houses. The training table at the College Inn, the scene of the most activity of the camp yesterday, gives transient customers hardly any room and keeps the waiters on the job feeding the athletes.

Trainer Jack Hulme, who anticipates the usual troubles in a day or two, is being assisted by Louis Pereryi, Graduate Manager A. A. McDonald, kept busy with a hundred and one odd jobs, has William Lewis, student manager, and Leon Hildebrand, assistant manager, helping him with equipment.

Jack Dempsey May Again Don Gloves, Plans Statement

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept 4.—Jack Dempsey may peep out of the grease paint long enough to declare himself back in the running for the world's heavyweight championship. This, anyhow was the intimation taken from his announcement that he would have something "important" to say to local sports writers at his hotel before nightfall. Even Dempsey realizes that the only important announcement he can make in regard to himself is one having to do with his immediate intentions in connection with boxing.

Faced with a "yes or no" question about boxing again, while he was making up in his dressing room for premiere of his show last night, Dempsey was saved the embarrassment of answering when his press agent interposed with this insignificant remark:

Answer Reserved.

"Mr. Dempsey is reserving his answer to that question for the sports writers tomorrow."

In view of the fact that the Mr. Dempsey he was discussing had answered that question in the negative at least a hundred times out of a possible ninety-nine or something during the last six months it is assumed that this worthy fellow is not imbued with the notion that anyone wishes to hear him say no again. The man, in other words always must bite the dog very severely to get his name in an eight column banner line for the late sports extras. The other well known exfighter Mr. Tunney may be wearied by the daily interview, but if there ever was any danger of Mr. Dempsey reaching this stage the crisis passed when he signed a theatrical contract. Just at the moment Mr. Dempsey would rather have a banner line than both Mr. Tuney and Dave Barry on the floor together with St. Vitus to do the counting.

Some persons are intimating today that there is a singular connection between Dempsey's important announcement and the fact that his show has just opened. These individuals, always ready to impugn another's motives declare that Mr. Dempsey feels he has something to say because now is the time for all good men including declasse prize fighters to have something to say. It is hinted in this connection that his announcement will be an innocuous affair, ranging somewhere in between definite affirmation of his return to the ring and actual negation of the intention.

My opinion has been that Dempsey will decide to fight, sooner or later, pessimism being one of the outstanding virtues of my very lovable disposition. He will decide to fight, first, because he has almost nothing against money, second, because Mr. Tunney no longer is identified with the profession; third because he has almost nothing against money.

College Grid Camps Opened

Western Pennsylvania And West Virginia Colleges Start Football Training Today

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR GOOD TEAMS

(International News Service)

WINDBER, Pa., Sept. 4.—Pitt's squad of thirty-six candidates for the varsity football team was to endure another day of calisthenics, ball-passing and lineup formations today. At the first session of the season Coach Jock Sutherland lined up three teams and sent them through starting and cutting. Coach Sutherland gave most of his attention to the center position. Unless he develops a good pivot man from the younger candidates, Sutherland may attempt to turn Capt. Alec Fox from a guard to the center position.

Referee Stops Fight In Eighth

DICKERSON, DUGAN COMPTON, ELMO WIN

By ED. FRITZ

FISTIC hungry who jammed into Jolly bowl last night witnessed one of the greatest fight calendars of the season and before they had left the wooden saucer had witnessed two knockouts, one technical knockout and two other good battles which went the limit.

In the main bout, scheduled to go ten rounds, the Filipino executioner, Johnny Datto won from the game Jack McFarland in the eighth when Referee Joe Keally, Pittsburgh, stopped the fight as McFarland was down and out in Datto's corner.

Although McFarland was defeated he has nothing to feel sorry over as his showing here last night fully demonstrated that he is without a peer in gameness and aggressiveness and the stagefright that palls many of Datto's opponents was not in his makeup.

McFarland Game

He was knocked down in the first but came up without a count and after Datto hurt his right hand in the third, tore into the Filipino with the suddenness of a volcano and he was only stopped when human endurance gave way and his mind became a blank in the eighth.

It was a fight from the first bell to the time that Referee Joe Keally stepped between the game Irishman who was on the floor for the second time in the eighth and the Filipino whose face was bloody.

When the bout started someone yelled: 'Another setup," but before the words had left the fan's mouth McFarland was across the ring and had landed a right uppercut on the Filipino. From then on it was fight for blood.

Datto was going big guns in the third when he crashed a right to McFarland's head and after the bout showed a badly swollen hand as the result of the punch. He tumbled McFarland for nine in the fifth but McFarland didn't let this bother him.

Takes Seventh

He came back and although he took a beating he kept coming in and in the seventh round it looked as though the Filipino had tired punching the Irishman and that Jack had a chance to win. However the merciless and game Filipino came back in the eighth.

He rushed from his corner and rocked McFarland with right and left to the head but Jack fought him to the ropes. Datto sent a right to the chin that knocked McFarland through the ropes. He crawled back into the ring and got up at the toll of nine.

Datto Wins

Johnny fiddled McFarland around so he could get a clean shot and McFarland surprised him by landing a hard right on the chin. Suddenly the Filipino's right shot out and down went Jack in Datto's corner. He was out, cold and the referee stopped the fight.

Andy Stahura and Mickie Dugan fought a great six round bout and the decision went to Dugan. Stahura started off well and took the first two rounds but the tricky boy with the Irish name outstepped Stahura, solved his style and was given the decision.

Walter Dickerson and Jess Hoak, welterweights, met, head-on in the first six round go and it found Hoak swinging like a rope and weaving like a lace-maker. He was dangerous every second and Dickerson fought cautiously.

Compton Is Fast

In the second session Dickerson got inside Hoak's swinging arms and commenced jolting the McKeesport boy around the chin. He made Hoak weak and when Jess rushed in sent a right uppercut to the chin that knocked him out for five minutes.

Georgie Compton, Rochester, stopped Sammy Busang, Monaca, in the second round of a thrilling fight. Compton sent Busang into the ropes in the first and dropped him twice in the third and he was still down when ten was tolled.

Elmo Takes Decision

Elmo Clark fought his customary battle last night and as a result Elmo The Mighty holds a four round decision over Harry Miller of McKeesport. The battle was filled with swings and punches and the decision which Elmo won was earned.

George Chip refereed the second and fourth bouts while Joe Keally acted as third man in the first, third and fifth bouts. Tommy Jones and Tommy Blake were the judges and Pete Capitola the timekeeper. Twenty five hundred fans witnessed the battles.

Many a man would have a better appreciation of his home were a real estate salesman to write an advertisement offering it for sale.

Youthful Tennis Stars Triumph In International Play

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Renewed faith and confidence in the future of American lawn tennis, which were first inspired by the brilliant victory of George Lott and John Hennessy in the national doubles championship at Boston on Saturday, is further evident today as a result of the decisive triumph of five matches to three scored by the U. S. forces over England in the final day's play of the International team match yesterday.

By the eleventh hour switch that put John Vanryn, former Princeton captain, and Wilmer Allison of Fort Worth, Texas, on the American team in place of Lott and Hennessy, it was believed that America's chances went aglimmering, yet no more brilliant play could have been asked for than that turned in by Vanryn who advanced to the greatest heights he has ever known in lawn tennis.

Thirteen Homers Hit Monday, Both Leagues Active

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Thirteen home runs have been added to major league records today as the result of the seven double-headers played yesterday. Five of the home runs were scored in American League games, while the Nationals piled up eight.

Of the seven doubleheaders six ended in clean sweeps, only the New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox getting an even break.

Eight double bills were scheduled for the Labor Day program, but the Brooklyn Robins and the Boston Braves were shut in by the rain in Boston.

Wampum And Ryantown Play At Wampum Tonight In Second Game Of Series

Tonight at 6 o'clock at the Wampum field the Wampum and Ryantown teams of the Twilight League will stage their second game of the series for the championship of the county. The first game of the series went to Ryantown Saturday by a score of 18 to 10.

The Wampum team was handicapped Saturday by the loss of three of their star players, Dombeck, Grinnen and Fitzgerald, who were with the Ellwood City team in the Beaver County loop. With these three men back in the lineup tonight, the Wampum team hopes to even the series.

Ragged Game Saturday

On Saturday afternoon at Centennial field, the Ryantown team took a lopsided contest. Lintz went to the knoll for the Ryantown team and pitched a steady game. Boone started for Wampum but did not prove effective and gave way to Ward. Ward later gave way to McIntyre and Ryantown found all three of the Wampum twirlers easy to hit.

The game Saturday was very ragged and in spots resembled sandlot baseball, the boys were just a little nervous and after the excitement of the championship wears off the teams should play better baseball.

Manager Elmer Robinson of Ryantown will use Russo on the slab tonight, while Manager Robertson of Wampum will likely send either Boone of McIntyre back against the National leaguers.

The umpires assigned to handle the game tonight by Commissioner Walther are Hudson, McCann and Fahey.

Start Football Practice At Westminster College: Large Squad Is Out

(By KASEY SWISHER)

Thirty candidates for the Westminster college football team reported to Head Coach "Dike" Beede at the Westminster field in New Wilmington yesterday and celebrated Labor Day in a fitting manner by indulging in 40 minutes of light drills and calisthenics and a run of a mile to top off the afternoon's work.

Ten or more additional candidates for the 1928 team will report to training camp today, giving Beede and Assistant Coach John Lawther at least 40 men from which to select a team.

The men who reported yesterday included the following letter men and former substitutes: Captain Joseph Furno, tackle, Elizabeth; James McQuiston, quarter, Cochranton; William Armour, tackle, Sharon; Joseph Dombrowski, tackle, Elizabeth; Karl Elers, tackle, Oakmont; Adrian Dible, half, Verona; William Crowell, end, Sharon; Marshall Fisher, guard, Youngstown; Emmett Tweedie, end, Turtle Creek; Paul Campbell, half, Pittsburgh; Stepehen Havrilla, full, North Braddock; and Russell Boone, center, Turtle Creek.

Freshmen candidates who reported yesterday were: R. V. Meredith, full back, Ford City; Homer Dishong, guard, Johnstown; Fred Palmer, half, Towanda; James Smalley, end, Elizabeth; Harold Forsha, end, Turtle Creek; Harry Michaels, guard, Turtle Creek; Charles Abraham, end, Oakmont; William Frack, half, Clairton; Joseph Pipoly, end, Struthers; Joseph Ledger, quarter, Turtle Creek; Clarence West, center, Blairsville; Marvin Clark, guard, Edenburg; Michael Kocheran, guard, Pittsburgh; Richard Fuller, half, Erie; and William Lowry, tackle, Ligonier.

Starting today, a morning practice session at 10 o'clock and another session in the afternoon at 2:30 will give the boys plenty of opportunity to sweat off any fat gained through summer lassitude. This schedule will be continued until the opening of college September 19, when but one practice each day will be possible.

In addition to the men who reported yesterday, Joseph Smith, James Lauder, Charles Ayers, Gerry Sweet, Emmanuel Krueger, and Herb Miller, all of last year's squad, will report today. Some freshmen candidates unable to report for the first session will also join the squad.

While the squad did not have an opportunity of showing much in the line of football tactics at yesterday's practice, it can be seen that Westminster will be represented by a sturdy team. Many of the new men are husky and rangy players who should make things rather interesting both for the boys who had varsity berths last year and for opposing teams.

Members of the squad are quartered in the Delta Phi Sigma, Kappa Phi Lambda, Theta Upsilon Omega, and Phi Pi Phi fraternity houses. The training table at the College Inn, the scene of the most activity of the camp yesterday, gives transient customers hardly any room and keeps the waiters on the job feeding the athletes.

Trainer Jack Hulme, who anticipates the usual troubles in a day or two, is being assisted by Louis Pereseny. Graduate Manager A. A. McDonald, kept busy with a hundred and one odd jobs, has William Lewis, student manager, and Leon Hildebrand, assistant manager, helping him with equipment.

The winners in Class A were Dick Mudrock, James Smith and Mose Mancino; Class B, Sam Morgan, John Rich and Angelo Cimini; Class C, Edward DeCarbo, Andy DeLorenzi and Frank Cozza.

The boys played eighteen holes and made rather good scores as a whole, considering their age and actual experience in playing.

REGROUND · THE SEASONED BLOCK IS FAR BETTER

Bear in mind and consider thoroly the FACT that new cylinder blocks are GREEN and not seasoned (practically annealed) like the old block.

When WE regrind the old worn or scored block we make it BETTER than a new block—and we increase the power over its RATED AMOUNT.

Regrinding (our way) saves time and money.

Calahan Returns To Work Following Recent Illness

Scout Executive J. Lee Calahan returned to his office this morning following a week's illness which has forced him to give up his work. Mr. Calahan is suffering with ulcers of the stomach and his conditions for the past some time has not been of the best.

He attended the clinic at Cleveland for a week and today is feeling somewhat better following his illness. Despite the fact that his condition is not at its best he returned to his office this morning for work.

Eventually, Why Not Now? By Feg Murray

Metropolitan Newspaper Service

There seems to be a tendency in some quarters to make of William T. Tilden 2nd a Martyr, with a big capital "M," and to sympathize with the words, "This is my reward for nine years on the Davis Cup team." "But where," one is forced to ask, "would William T. Tilden 2nd be if it wasn't for nine Davis Cup teams? Would he have his picture in cigarette ads, and would he be in the movies and on the stage, and would his stories be syndicated throughout the world, if it hadn't been for tennis?" I should say not. Granted that Big Bill has done a lot for tennis, and doubly granted that tennis has done a lot for Big Bill.

It strikes me that Tilden's silly letter to the committee ruined his chances, and also that the members of the executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association would have done much better had they declared Tilden "in" or "out" as briefly as possible (certainly in less than six hours), and then not have issued the lengthy and ridiculous statement in which they explained why they had suspended Big Bill.

People who criticize the U. S. L. T. A. by saying "Think of all the dough Tilden has made for those birds" forget that only Edward B. Moss, the executive secretary of the association, gets any pay for his services, while such men as Collom, Dailey, Knox, Carruthers, Hardy, Mersereau, and Myrick all devote much time and energy for no pay whatsoever.

The greatest player the game has ever known will be back in competition again, however, or I miss my guess entirely.

FIGHTING FOR THE FLAG

By NORMAN E. BROWN

How teams finished in 1925.

Cincinnati	.523
St. Louis	.503
Boston	.468
Brooklyn	.444

Chicago	.513
Cleveland	.455
New York	.448
Boston	.309

The interesting feature of the standing above, designating the way the close of the major league campaigns found the various teams, is the position of the New York Yankees. They rest in seventh place. After three consecutive penants the team had dropped to second in 1924, but the most pessimistic fans thought that the following year would see them back in the saddle.

Of course, the collapse of Babe Ruth a few days before the season opened started the disaster. An overdose of hot dogs, growling at each other in an overtaxed tummy, sent Ruth to New York to the hospital and the team was without his services much of the year.

Washington, out to retain the flag, was first for a week in April and then, except for a few days in July, found the opposition so tough that they were unable to climb back. However, in mid-August, they crashed their way into the lead again and held it to the finish.

The comeback of Stanley Coveleskie, cast off by the Cleveland Indians, was one of the high spots of the team's play. Dutch Ruether, another castoff, won 18 games and lost but 7.

As for the other teams, Detroit fizzled again. Eddie Collins, making his debut as manager of the White Sox, did nobly until forced to the bench with injuries, and Cleveland threatened early in the season, but it proved only a spurt. Had the Athletics enjoyed better luck in their games abroad they would have nosed out the Senators. While winning 50 and losing only 26 games on their home lot, Connie's boys were barely able to break even on the road—winning and losing 38.

In the National league the Pirates ended the four-year reign of the New York Giants as their part of the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the National league.

The Pittsburgh club, led by Bill McKechnie, started the season at the bottom, climbed to fifth place the first week in May, dropped with a thud again and then started a steady climb to the top which landed them there in the closing days of June.

The Giants started the season with a rush that carried them to first place in a hurry and stayed there until the Pirates dislodged them.

Dazzy Vance's no-hit game against the Philadelphia club was about the only bright spot in the play of the other clubs. The Dodgers and Phils wound up tied for sixth place.

The Pirates beat out the Senators in the world's series, four games to three, after the Washington clu apparently had the series won.

West Pittsburg Trims Dewberrys

The West Pittsburg Garlands downed the Dewberry team 15 to 14 in a game played at the Scotland Lane field on Saturday afternoon.

The contest was a free-for-all slugging match with the two teams having thirty-two hits between them. The Garlands won the game by bunching hits in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings. The Dewberry rally in the ninth inning was cut short. Fundoots, A. Braykovich, Beres and Passalinqua were the heavy hitters for the Garlands. For the Dewberrys the hitting of Carr, Gall and Hill featured.

(International News Service)

LORETTO, Pa., Sept. 4.—Charles M. Schwab, who directs the Bethlehem Steel company, has no intention of retiring from business temporarily or permanently, to take part in the current presidential campaign, it became known today.

"I think more of my job than I do of politics," Schwab, whose palatial residence here is one of the show places of Pennsylvania, was quoted as remarking. "They wanted me to be treasurer of the Republican campaign but I turned it down."

Schwab said he thought both Al Smith and Herbert Hoover were "very good men."

Giants Advance In Pennant Race

Giants Grab Two Games Monday While Cards And Cubs Lose Pair

YANKEES INCREASE LEAD TO TWO GAMES

By BERNARD MULLADY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The Giants are back in the race again. They advanced to the runner-up position, four and one-half games behind the Cards, by beating the Phillies twice while St. Louis and Chicago were losing both ends of their doubleheaders to the Reds and the Pirates. The first was 4-3, and the second 9-3.

Purdy starred in the opener of the two games the Reds took from the league leading Cards. Trailing until the ninth inning of the opener, the Cards then whacked out three runs to take the lead, 5 to 4. Purdy drove in the tying run in the last of the ninth and the game remained in a knot until the same Red brought home the winning tally in the 11th. The late game went to the Reds in the sixth when a flock of hits brought in six runs to make it 8 to 2.

The Pirates won the morning game from the Cubs, 16 to 1, and took the afternoon session, 6 to 3, dropping the Cubs out of their second place seat. Paul Waner used the two games to rap out six hits. One of them was a home run, and lifted him to within one percentage point of Rogers Hornsby, who was held idle when the Braves-Robins game was rained out.

McGraw's team has an opportunity to gain a whole game on the Cards today when they tackle the Phillies for another doubleheader while the St. Louis boys are idle.

Yanks Increase Lead

The Yanks added a whole game to their lead by splitting a Labor Day bargain bill with the Red Sox while the Athletics were taking a two-ply drubbing from the Senators.

Connie Mack's boys were swamped in the early game at Washington, 6 to 1, and the Senators nosed them out in the late session, 5 to 4. Hadley shone in the opener. He struck out eight batters and allowed but four hits.

The White Sox took two from the Tigers, 5 to 2 and 7 to 5, and the Browns two-timed the Indians, 5 to 3 and 16 to 10. The White Sox thus move up from seventh to fifth place and the Tigers and Indians slip down a notch each. The Browns' two victories gave the St. Louis boys a tigher grasp on their third place position.

With an off day today, the Yanks can view the Athletics' brush with the Senators, whom they again meet in a doubleheader tomorrow.

At the close of the meeting it is expected that quite a large delegation of Kiwanians and their families will leave for Lakewood Beach, near East Brook where the combined picnic of the Lions, Kiwanis, Quota and Business Girls' clubs will be held.

Caddies At Field Club Take Part In Tourney; Make Some Good Scores

Approximately fifteen boys, who act as caddies at the golf course of the New Castle Field club during the summer months, took part in the recent match for caddies of the course, sponsored by J. B. Matthews in behalf of the golf committee and held under the supervision of Captain V. Arthur Smith, club professional and Angelo Monsey, caddy master.

The boys participating were arranged in three classes, Class A being the boys over fourteen years of age; Class B for boys between 12 and 14 years of age and Class C for boys under 12 years of age.

The boys placing one, two and three in the respective classes will receive cash awards at the annual caddy dinner to be held later in the season.

The boys played eighteen holes and made rather good scores as a whole, considering their age and actual experience in playing.

Calahan Returns To Work Following Recent Illness

Scout Executive J. Lee Calahan returned to his office this morning following a week's illness which has forced him to give up his work. Mr. Calahan is suffering with ulcers of the stomach and his conditions for the past some time has not been of the best.

He attended the clinic at Cleveland for a week and today is feeling somewhat better following his illness. Despite the fact that his condition is not at its best he returned to his office this morning for work.

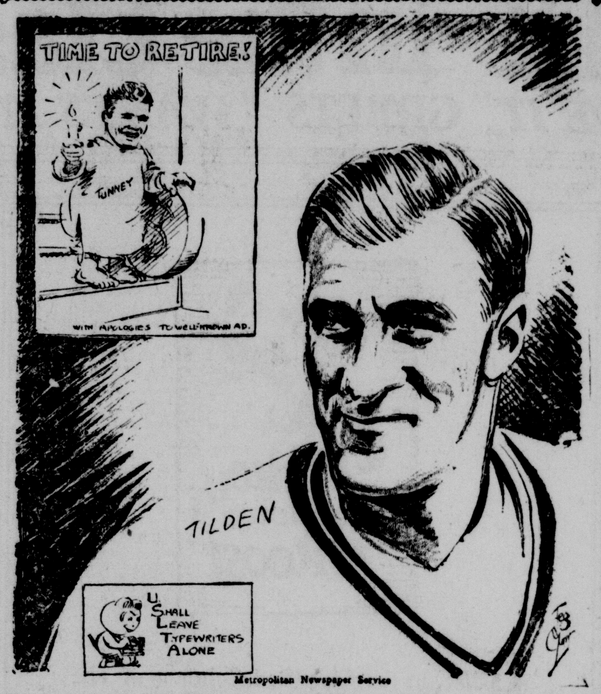
Eventually, Why Not Now? By Feg Murray



There seems to be a tendency in some quarters to make of William T. Tilden 2nd a Martyr, with a big capital "M," and to sympathize with the words, "This is my reward for nine years on the Davis Cup team." "But where," one is forced to ask, "would William T. Tilden 2nd be if it wasn't for nine Davis Cup teams? Would he have his picture in cigarette ads, and would he be in the movies and on the stage, and would his stories be syndicated throughout the world, if it hadn't been for tennis?" I should say not. Granted that Big Bill has done a lot for tennis, and doubly granted that tennis has done a lot for Big Bill.

It strikes me that Tilden's silly letter to the committee ruined his chances, and also that the members of the executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association would have done much better had they declared Tilden "in" or "out" as briefly as possible (certainly in less than six hours), and then not have issued the lengthy and ridiculous statement in which they explained why they had suspended Big Bill.

People who criticize the U. S. L. T. A. by saying "Think of all the dough Tilden has made for those birds" forget that only Edward B. Moss, the executive secretary of the association, gets any pay for his services, while such men as Collom, Dailey, Knox, Carruthers, Hardy, Mersereau, and Myrick all devote much time and energy for no pay whatsoever.

The greatest player the game has ever known will be back in competition again, however, or I miss my guess entirely.

FIGHTING FOR THE FLAG

How teams finished in 1925.

National League

Pittsburgh	.621
New York	.566
Cincinnati	.523
St. Louis	.503
Boston	.458
Brooklyn	.444

Philadelphia	.579
St. Louis	.536
Detroit	.526
Chicago	.513
Cleveland	.455
New York	.448
Boston	.309

The interesting feature of the standing above, designating the way the close of the major league campaigns found the various teams, is the position of the New York Yankees. They rest in seventh place. After three consecutive penants the team had dropped to second in 1924, but the most pessimistic fans thought that the following year would see them back in the saddle.

Of course, the collapse of Babe Ruth a few days before the season opened started the disaster. An overdose of hot dogs, growling at each other in an overtaxed tummy, sent Ruth to New York to the hospital and the team was without his services much of the year.

Washington, out to retain the flag, was first for a week in April and then, except for a few days in July, found the opposition so tough that they were unable to climb back. However, in mid-August, they crashed their way into the lead again and held it to the finish.

The comeback of Stanley Coveleskie, cast off by the Cleveland Indians, was one of the high spots of the team's play. Dutch Ruether, another castoff, won 18 games and lost but 7.

As for the other teams, Detroit fizzled again. Eddie Collins, making his debut as manager of the White Sox, did nobly until forced to the bench with injuries, and Cleveland threatened early in the season, but it proved only a spurt. Had the Athletics enjoyed better luck in their games abroad they would have nosed out the Senators. While winning 50 and losing only 26 games on their home lot, Connie's boys were barely able to break even on the road—winning and losing 38.

In the National league the Pirates ended the four-year reign of the New York Giants as their part of the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the National league.

The Pittsburgh club, led by Bill McKechnie, started the season at the bottom, climbed to fifth place the first week in May, dropped with a thud again and then started a steady climb to the top which landed them there in the closing days of June.

The Giants started the season with a rush that carried them to first place in a hurry and stayed there until the Pirates dislodged them.

Dazzy Vance's no-hit game against the Philadelphia club was about the only bright spot in the play of the other clubs. The Dodgers and Phils wound up tied for sixth place.

The Pirates beat out the Senators in the world's series, four games to three, after the Washington clu apparently had the series won.

West Pittsburg Trims Dewberrys

The West Pittsburg Garlands downed the Dewberry team 15 to 14 in a game played at the Scotland Lane field on Saturday afternoon.

The contest was a free-for-all slugging match with the two teams having thirty-two hits between them. The Garlands won the game by bunching hits in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings. The Dewberry rally in the ninth inning was cut short. Fundoots, A. Braykovich, Beres and Passalinqua were the heavy hitters for the Garlands. For the Dewberrys the hitting of Carr, Gall and Hill featured.

LORETTO, Pa., Sept. 4.—Charles M. Schwab, who directs the Bethlehem Steel company, has no intention of retiring from business temporarily or permanently, to take part in the current presidential campaign, it became known today.

"I think more of my job than I do of politics," Schwab, whose palatial residence here is one of the show places of Pennsylvania, was quoted as remarking. "They wanted me to be treasurer of the Republican campaign but I turned it down."

Schwab said he thought both Al Smith and Herbert Hoover were "very good men."

Giants Advance In Pennant Race

YANKEES INCREASE LEAD TO TWO GAMES

By BERNARD MULLADY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The Giants are back in the race again. They advanced to the runner-up position, four and one-half games behind the Cards, by beating the Phillies twice while St. Louis and Chicago were losing both ends of their doubleheaders to the Reds and the Pirates. The first was 4-3, and the second 9-3.

Purdy starred in the opener of the two games the Reds took from the league leading Cards. Trailing until the ninth inning of the opener, the Cards then whacked out three runs to take the lead, 5 to 4. Purdy drove in the tying run in the last of the ninth and the game remained in a knot until the same Red brought home the winning tally in the 11th. The late game went to the Reds in the sixth when a flock of hits brought in six runs to make it 8 to 2.

The Pirates won the morning game from the Cubs, 16 to 1, and took the afternoon session, 6 to 3, dropping the Cubs out of their second place seat. Paul Waner used the two games to rap out six hits. One of them was a home run, and lifted him to within one percentage point of Rogers Hornsby, who was held idle when the Braves-Robins game was rained out.

McGraw's team has an opportunity to gain a whole game on the Cards today when they tackle the Phillies for another doubleheader while the St. Louis boys are idle.

Yanks Increase Lead

The Yanks added a whole game to their lead by splitting a Labor Day bargain bill with the Red Sox while the Athletics were taking a two-ply drubbing from the Senators.

Connie Mack's boys were swamped in the early game at Washington, 6 to 1, and the Senators nosed them out in the late session, 5 to 4. Hadley shone in the opener. He struck out eight batters and allowed but four hits.

The White Sox took two from the Tigers, 5 to 2 and 7 to 5, and the Browns two-timed the Indians, 5 to 3 and 16 to 10. The White Sox thus move up from seventh to fifth place and the Tigers and Indians slip down a notch each. The Browns' two victories gave the St. Louis boys a tigher grasp on their third place position.

With an off day today, the Yanks can view the Athletics' brush with the Senators, whom they again meet in a doubleheader tomorrow.

At the close of the meeting it is expected that quite a large delegation of Kiwanians and their families will leave for Lakewood Beach, near East Brook where the combined picnic of the Lions, Kiwanis, Quota and Business Girls' clubs will be held.

N. Y. STOCKS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The aggressive forward sweep of industrial stock prices was held up today as the market paused to absorb heavy profit-taking in the various departments, particularly the motor and the steels. Early speculative interest resolved around the motor shares, in which the volume of buying orders over the triple holiday has been the largest since the movement started.

The market also faced a handicap in the heavy withdrawals of funds from the call loans market. Up to mid-day a total of $25,000,000 had thus been called in, forcing liquidation of some of the thinly-margined accounts. Professionals in this period were inclined to the short side of the market for temporary advantage at at least.

Between this date and the middle of the month the government, the corporations and the banks face a huge task in the financing operations of various kinds, and this will restrict the volume of funds available for stock market purposes. The interest and dividend payments, will, however, furnish a broad basis for new investment buying of both stocks and bonds, market demand for which is expected to broaden out in the next few weeks.

N. Y. STOCKS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The aggressive forward sweep of industrial stock prices was held up today as the market paused to absorb heavy profit-taking in the various departments, particularly the motor and the steels. Early speculative interest resolved around the motor shares, in which the volume of buying orders over the triple holiday has been the largest since the movement started.

The market also faced a handicap in the heavy withdrawals of funds from the call loan market. Up to mid-day a total of $25,000,000 had thus been called in, forcing liquidation of some of the think-invested accounts. Professionals in this period were inclined to the short side of the market for temporary advantage at at least.

Between this date and the middle of the month the government, the corporations and the banks face a huge task in the financing [illegible] of various kinds, and this will restrict the volume of funds available for stock market purposes. The interest and dividend payments, will, however, furnish a broad basis for new investment buying of both stocks and bonds, market demand for which is expected to broaden out in the next few weeks.

Costs Much More To Reside In Philadelphia Than To Have Home In New Castle!

By GEORGE H. MANNING.
(Washington Correspondent of The News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 4.—The average resident of Philadelphia pays far more for operation of his city government than the residents of any other city in the state except Pittsburgh, in some instances paying more that twice as much. The per capita cost of running the Philadelphia city government during the fiscal year ending December 31, 1927 was $40,68.

While the average Philadelphian was expending this sum to keep his government in working order, the average New Castle resident was paying but $25.37, or $15.31 less.

The Philadelphia figure of $40.68 is further emphasized when the cost of running some of the Pennsylvania cities is considered. The per capita cost of Harrisburg's city government last year was $28.98; that of New Castle was $25.37; of York $23.84; of Reading $26.27; of Williamsport $24.88 and that of Chester $18.01, the latter being less than half that of Philadelphia. Johnstown which paid $32.53 and Scranton which paid $31.04 were the only cities to approach the Philadelphia figure according to records compiled thusfar by the census bureau.

Apparently the mythical John Doe in Philadelphia pays and pays plenty for what advantages he may enjoy by living in the metropolis instead of the smaller cities. Whether, for instance it is better to pay $17,934,432 for the new Broad street subway and live in a place where it is essential, or to live in a place where you can't enjoy the privileges of riding a subway but don't have to pay for it is at least a debatable question.

At any rate citizens of the other Pennsylvania cities will probably argue vigorously that it is.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Everything under control today. The editor is back, the weather is fine, Labor Day is over, school is ready to start and the government at Washington still lives. After two weeks of sitting at a desk the engineer of the Colyum is back renewing acquaintances almost forgotten, ready to accept various and sundry invitations, for work, sport or eating. Saying which we will now hop into the colyum.

Perhaps the first thing of moment, and the very obvious thing to mention was the traffic of Labor Day. Nothing like it in years and the Saturday before Labor Day was worse if anything. All yesterday afternoon the cars coming in the city from Jefferson street, Grand street, the Butler road and the Ellwood road disgorged a load of traffic that swamped Washington street.

Attempting to cross Washington street on foot against the lights was something akin to singing "Marching Through Georgia" on Peachtree street in Atlanta, and many a good burgher nearly lost the buttons off his coat trying it.

Saturday evening and most of Sunday was spent with the 332nd Infantry, and Oswald what a gang that is. Ready for fun, fight or frolic, and all of it frolic while they were here. Just like a big family, and if they displayed the same enthusiasm in Italy as they did here, it isn't any wonder the Austrians quit cold.

And as spaghetti winders they win first, second and third place, with the field distanced.

This is the day the new teachers are gathered together all in a flock for Dr. Green to give the once over. And underneath their summer tan or early fall rouge or whatever they effect, will be a rather anxious time for a little while at least for its a new world for them. Three months ago a cap and gown. Tomorrow a pointer and a text book. And some of the fast ones they pulled on college professors will now be returned, plus.

Getting ready for that four way service picnic at Lakewood on Wednesday. This will be a good opportunity to test out that old bromide that women have the last word. Two men's clubs and two women's clubs and if any woman in the world can out speak some of the Kiwanis Club they certainly will be shifted into high.

Proof of this can be found in any noon meeting of the Kiwanis Club. Marvin, Nunn, Mayberry, or any of the rest of them. They think fast on their feet, and express their thoughts in words, added to which are a goodly number of gesticulations.

If some of the boys ever had their hands tied they would be unable to make a speech.

After eight years membership in the Kiwanis Club I think I'm qualified to speak.

Before calling Chicago a modern Athens, as some of her patriots do, note how it sounds to call Athens an ancient Chicago.

If a lie is immoral why does Nature give the tiger stripes, that say "Don't worry; this is just streaks of sunlight in a cane patch."

Then the Doctor recommended this

Then my doctor recommended Resinol. Almost instantly the discomfort stopped." Try Resinol yourself. The Ointment at night! Wash off with Resinol Soap in the morning! Resinol Soap, too, for general toilet use. Also as a shampoo. At all druggists.

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

RIVER ROMANCE

The writer, traveling hundreds of miles on the Mississippi, the Ohio, and Tennessee rivers years ago, remembers the fascination of old steamboat days. The hoarse whistle of the "City of Paducah" is no longer heard around the bend, or the singing of carefree roustabouts at Crump's Landing. Most of the traffic in these less romantic days goes by train and truck. But recent steamboat races on the Ohio smack of the old days. All happy travel is not by airplane.

UNBIASED

What the court needs in a murder case where the sanity of the defendant is involved is the independent, unbiased testimony of alienists. The idea of having a certain number of so-called experts testify for the prosecution and a similar number or more for the defense is not the way to justice. Examination for sanity ought to be a perfectly independent investigation.

HOME WORK

A lot of men will be sympathetic with the woman mayor of an Ohio town who resigned because her public duties interfered with her home work. It is laudable to want to serve the public, but nobody should take it on until his "home work" is done. And there is lots of home work. It reaches all the way from raking the leaves to giving your children a reasonable amount of your society when you art at your best. This goes for both men and women.

CRAZY

Unless you have long been in the newspaper business you have no idea how many people there are in the world who are moderately crazy. Most of them, fortunately, confine their obsessions to a few topics and if they can be kept off these particular preserves they get along fairly well and so do their hearers.

COMPETITION

One of the particular advantages of improved methods of transportation such as airplanes and good roads is the stimulus that is given to competition and hence to the general improvement of industrial and human conditions. An eastern railroad announced some time ago that it would inaugurate a system of "store-door delivery" whereby merchandise would be picked up at the door of the shipper and laid down at the door of the consignee by a single transportation process, both railroad and trucks being used. Invention not only gives us something new but often it forces old things to become better.

Senator Walsh Is Slightly Injured When Autos Crash

Senator David I. Walsh Only Slightly Hurt As Automobile Figures In Crash

(International News Service)
CLINTON, Mass., Sept. 4.—U. S. Senator David I. Walsh, except for a few unsightly bandages was none the worse today for his exciting experience and narrow escape from possible serious injury when his automobile was struck by a skidding car yesterday in Seekonk.

The veteran senator took occasion personally to allay fears that he had been badly hurt.

The accident forced Sen. Walsh to call off speaking engagements yesterday at New Bedford and at Lowell.

Costs Much More To Reside In Philadelphia Than To Have Home In New Castle!

By GEORGE H. MANNING.
(Washington Correspondent of The News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 4—The average resident of Philadelphia pays far more for operation of his city government than the residents of any other city in the state except Pittsburgh, in some instances paying more that twice as much. The per capita cost of running the Philadelphia city government during the fiscal year ending December 31, 1927 was $40.68.

While the average Philadelphian was expending this sum to keep his government in working order, the average New Castle resident was paying but $25.37, or $15.31 less.

The Philadelphia figure of $40.68 is further emphasized when the cost of running some of the Pennsylvania cities is considered. The per capita cost of Harrisburg's city government last year was $28.98; that of New Castle was $25.37; of York $23.84; of Reading $26.27; of Williamsport $24.88 and that of Chester $18.01, the latter being less than half that of Philadelphia. Just like a big family, and if they displayed the same enthusiasm in Italy as they did here, it isn't any wonder the Austrians quit cold.

And as spaghetti winders they win first, second and third place, with the field distanced.

This is the day the new teachers are gathered together all in a flock for Dr. Green to give the once over. And underneath their summer tan or early fall rouge or whatever they effect, will be a rather anxious time for a little while at least for its a new world for them. Three months ago a cap and gown. Tomorrow a pointer and a text book. And some of the fast ones they pulled on college professors will now be returned, plus.

Getting ready for that four way service picnic at Lakewood on Wednesday. This will be a good opportunity to test out that old bromide that women have the last word. Two men's clubs and two women's clubs and if any woman in the world can out speak some of the Kiwanis Club they certainly will be shifted into high.

Proof of this can be found in any noon meeting of the Kiwanis Club. Marvin, Nunn, Mayberry, or any of the rest of them. They think fast on their feet, and express their thoughts in words, added to which are a goodly number of gesticulations.

If some of the boys ever had their hands tied they would be unable to make a speech.

After eight years membership in the Kiwanis Club I think I'm qualified to speak.

Before calling Chicago a modern Athens, as some of her patriots do, note how it sounds to call Athens an ancient Chicago.

If a lie is immoral why does Nature give the tiger stripes, that say "Don't worry; this is just streaks of sunlight in a cane patch."

Then the Doctor recommended this

One woman, who had long suffered from a severe case of eczema, writes: "For many months I was constantly bothered. I tried four or five different remedies without success. Then my doctor recommended Resinol. Almost instantly the discomfort stopped." Try Resinol yourself. The Ointment at night! Wash off with Resinol Soap in the morning! Resinol Soap, too, for general toilet use. Also as a shampoo. At all druggists.

The Way of the World

RIVER ROMANCE

The writer, traveling hundreds of miles on the Mississippi, the Ohio, and Tennessee rivers years ago, remembers the fascination of old steamboat days. The hoarse whistle of the "City of Paducah" is no longer heard around the bend, or the singing of carefree roustabouts at Crump's Landing. Most of the traffic in these less romantic days goes by train and truck. But recent steamboat races on the Ohio smack of the old days. All happy travel is not by airplane.

UNBIASED

What the court needs in a murder case where the sanity of the defendant is involved is the independent, unbiased testimony of alienists. The idea of having a certain number of so-called experts testify for the prosecution and a similar number or more for the defense is not the way to justice. Examination for sanity ought to be a perfectly independent investigation.

HOME WORK

A lot of men will be sympathetic with the woman mayor of an Ohio town who resigned because her public duties interfered with her home work. It is laudable to want to serve the public, but nobody should take it on until his "home work" is done. And there is lots of home work. It reaches all the way from raking the leaves to giving your children a reasonable amount of your society when you art at your best. This goes for both men and women.

CRAZY

Unless you have long been in the newspaper business you have no idea how many people there are in the world who are moderately crazy. Most of them, fortunately, confine their obsessions to a few topics and if they can be kept off these particular preserves they get along fairly well and so do their hearers.

COMPETITION

One of the particular advantages of improved methods of transportation such as airplanes and good roads is the stimulus that is given to competition and hence to the general improvement of industrial and human conditions. An eastern railroad announced some time ago that it would inaugurate a system of "store-door delivery" whereby merchandise would be picked up at the door of the shipper and laid down at the door of the consignee by a single transportation process, both railroad and trucks being used. Invention not only gives us something new but often it forces old things to become better.

Mental Clinic At Associated Charities Today

This morning in the rooms of the Associated Charities on East street the state health clinic, under the direction of the State Bureau of Mental Health, examined several patients in connection with their mental health clinic which takes place here every month.

Dr. George Lucier, who is located at the Polk institution, conducts the clinic here each month. The clinic is under the direction of the state and is free to all subjected to examinations.

Senator Walsh Is Slightly Injured When Autos Crash

(International News Service)

CLINTON, Mass., Sept. 4.—U. S. Senator David I. Walsh, except for a few unsightly bandages was none the worse today for his exciting experience and narrow escape from possible serious injury when his automobile was struck by a skidding car yesterday in Seekonk.

The veteran senator took occasion personally to allay fears that he had been badly hurt.

The accident forced Sen. Walsh to call off speaking engagements yesterday at New Bedford and at Lowell.

The program for the visiting dealers will open at 12:30 p. m. with a luncheon at the Highland U. P. church. After the noon meal, the pharmacists will go to Mr. Paisley's home, but one block away, for an afternoon meeting in regard to the business of the organization.

Post Cards From Europe
by William Ivy

PARIS, Sept. 4.—M. Paul Painleve, minister of war, in a recent address to his constituents on the Briand-Kellogg pact, expressed the hope that besides placing war outside the law, the nations of the world would also put it out of the dictionary.

"I hope," said M. Painleve, "that I shall some day be known, not as minister of war, but as minister of peace." (Thus unconsciously plagiarizing a probably long forgotten idea of Elbert Hubbard.)

When you think of it, it does seem anachronistic— particularly in the face of the modern peace movement—for nations to go on having "war" departments. Some countries, indeed, notably Norway, have abolished the term. The combined military and naval administration in Norway is called the "ministry of defense."

Mr. Painleve's suggestion, however, has not been very enthusiastically received in France, particularly by the conservative press. The French are not yet persuaded that the Kellogg scheme—although adapted from a proposal of M. Briand—means the end of war, and they don't see that it will help matters any to change the name of the war department to "peace department." Furthermore they pointed out that M. Aristide Briand thinks his department—the foreign office— is the real peace department.

The French are not very fond of verbal niceties in such matters, anyway.

"If we wanted to go on with this game of paradoxes," one conservative commentator remarks, "we should have to change the old Latin proverb to: 'Si vis bellum, para pacem.' " ("If you want war, prepare for peace.")

And, he adds, the proverb is just in the reversed form; there is no surer way to promote war than to indulge in too much pacifist propaganda.

Chicago Chatter
BY IONE QUINBY

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—You can't tell whether a hotel is doing business or not in Chicago this year, for as soon as the nine o'clock gong strikes the hotel "lamp" lighter goes around lighting up every other empty room. One downtown hotel had two floors empty not long ago, but no one would have surmised it because they were lighted up just the same as when business was good. (Moral: Keep the lights going so the cockeyed world won't know how dark things are!)

There's more truth than fiction in bluffing it out. Bell Livingstone, belonging to the great Matrimonial Trinity—of which Ganna Walska and Peggy Joyce are members—is a good example. Belle blew into Chicago her old home town, recently, with four scrapped husbands, two children and a varied career to her credit since she was here last. She has been the toast of two continents, the owner of one of the most celebrated chateaus in France, a Broadway star (long before she turned 50), and mistress of millions in the interim, but she came back broke. Did she weep over the shoulders of her old Chicago friends? She did not. She dressed up in her Parisian frocks, invited the home towners to call and regaled them with her memories of a joyous life. And they're ready to give her the town now because she made them laugh instead of weep.

Belle has the faculty that makes for the only real happiness in a city of four million. She knows how to talk everybody's language! It doesn't make any difference whether it's the bell hop at the Palmer House who brings messages to her suite, the white-haired financier on LaSalle street, the boys who tell bedtime stories to their youngsters now, but used to dance in her home between battles in 1918, the down and outer, or the members of the upper crust—she clicks with them all. There are thousands who speak fluently in Italian, German, French and Russian, but few who speak every man's language! More people lose heart in a big city because they have no one to speak to understandingly than for any one reason.

The world does change. One day not long ago Norma Talmadge came to town and got off at the Englewood station in order—so she said afterward—to avoid the limelight. And then, of course, there are Hoover, Lindbergh and Tunney, who haven't appeared overly keen to get personal publicity. Lunching the other day with two or three of the fourth estate, we got to talking about the old-fashioned celebrity who used to wear his name on his hatband like Boswell, or carried an identifying flower in his hand like Wilde did for a time, or had an assistant to point an admiring index finger at the "master" as Ibsen did. But, of course, that was before celebrities left everything to press agents!

Sentiment is still rampant in Chicago, where most persons suppose business is conducted on a cold business basis only. In Marshall Field's store, where almost everything under the sun may be purchased, it is impossible to buy a package of cigarettes, because the late John G. Shedd, one of the heads of the store, disapproved of women smoking.

Results Were So Amazing Almost Doubted Facts!

New Castle Couple Vastly Benefited By Ten Herbs, Husband States.

"I never had any faith in medicines until my wife started using Ten Herbs, and then the results were so amazing that I could hardly believe the facts," was the recent statement of Mr. Benjamin F. Kennedy, 2215

MR. BENJAMIN F. KENNEDY

Hartman Street, New Castle, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine to crowds of men and women.

Finally my wife persuaded me to try your medicine, and I am glad that she did, as my work is heavy and I was not feeling very well," continued Mr. Kennedy, who is an iron-worker. "My digestion was gradually becoming weaker, and I would bring home the dinner pail almost as full as when I took it to work. I became so nervous that a good night's sleep was a rare thing. Then I began to feel worn-out.

"After using the first bottle of Ten Herbs, my appetite returned so that I was glad to empty my dinner pail. My digestion was improved. Now, when the shades of night fall, I am glad to get to bed, as I have sound, restful sleep. I really feel better in every way, and shall continue using your medicine until my whole system is built up. I am glad to recommend Ten Herbs as a health-restorer and invigorator."

That hundreds throughout this section are being helped back to better health is shown by the reports that daily are reaching the Ten Herbs Man. Many are telling how this new herbal compound relieved them of such ailing conditions as indigestion, gas, bloating, biliousness, dizziness, headaches, nervousness, constipation, pains and aches in the back, rheumatism, neuritis and weak, run-down feeling.

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

NEW COURSE IN PUBLIC SCHOOL

Commercial Course At New Wilmington; News Notes Of College Town

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Sept. 4.—With a force of 11 instructors the New Wilmington public school opened its first semester this morning. Short class sessions marked the procedure of the morning with the most time being devoted to the arrangements of student's curicula in the high school.

Featuring the beginning of this year's session of the high school is the initiation and use of the new commercial course established with new equipment in the course of the summer months. The subjects in this new course have already become so popular among the students that the classes are overflowing.

Beside Principal G. E. Nord and Vice Principal Mae McKelvy the faculty of the high school includes R. Olsen, Miss E. Winger, Miss L. Berbower, Miss M. Thorpe and Miss L. Porter. The teachers of the grades are Miss C. Williamson, Mrs. H. Wilson, Miss Mary Rich and Miss L. McElroy.

As preliminary work to the new $12,500 disposal plant to be put in here, the Minteer and Anderson Co. have started excavation work on the site east of town. The same contractors also started work this morning on the bridge to be put in on the Sharon-New Wilmington road.

Leaving here yesterday morning Dr. S. G. Hart started on the first lap of his trip to the mission field in India. Dr. Hart is enroute to New York by automobile with his son Dr. Hugh Hart, M. D. and will leave there on September 6.

Another missionary who has been spending his furlough in New Wilmington and who will sail on the same boat with Dr. Hart is Rev. R. Maxwell who also left the college town yesterday for New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Robinson and their son Paul and their daughter Pauline are at present touring the east by automobile. On this vacation trip they expect to touch Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Harrisburg and Gettysburg.

Breaking the quiet of the New Wilmington streets early yesterday morning were the local Boy Scouts who put out the flags to mark the holiday.

Increase In Enrollment Is Seen For Local Public Schools

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 4.—Many youngsters are madly taking advantage of their last day of vacation today, scooting joyously along on their roller skates, fearfully anticipating the fact that tomorrow they must go back to school books and 9:30 bedtime hours.

The local schools have their enrollments up to date and a large increase of pupils is noticed. A new feature starting this year is the mothers training course for foreign mothers, taught by Mrs. Joe Young. This course has been largely made possible through the interest of the Women's club of this city who donated a sum of money toward a salary for the teacher of this class.

In the junior and senior high school the first day's work will be mainly selecting the courses and getting started in the various rooms, assignment of books, etc.

Couples Have Steak Fry For Visitor

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 4.—As a courtesy to Ray Hull school friend of Rolland Haines from Lansing, Mich., who is a guest at the Haines home on Fourth street, several couples formed a steak fry picnic at the airport Monday evening.

At the conclusion of a delicious menu several of the party enjoyed a spin in the aeroplane getting a bird's eye view of the vicinity and concluding the evening by attending the dance at the Country club.

Those enjoying the picnic were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Passemore, Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Haines, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moltrup, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Bell, Miss Florence Gestric of New Brighton and Ray Hull of Lansing, Mich.

ROMANCE CLAIMS PROM QUEEN

A college romance culminated the other day with the marriage of Miss Rose Mary Yorke, Washington, Pa., beauty, to Frederick M. Remley, of Kalamazoo, Mich. The couple met at Washington and Jefferson college where Miss Yorke was queen of the junior prom last year, and Remley was prominent in student life until his graduation last June.

Baptismal Service On Next Sunday

Announcement was made on last Sunday that a baptismal service would be held in the "Harmony" Baptist church, on the New Castle-Ellwood City highway, next Sunday September 9, at eleven o'clock a. m. Candidates who discover that this date is inconvenient will be accommodated later on in a similar service. However, some will be immersed this coming Sunday morning.

The Rev. J. R. Routledge will be present and assist, baptizing at the conclusion of an appropriate sermon by Rev. Walker.

The young people started fall activities last Sunday night with a devotional service, after which T. W. Bouck spoke to the edification of all present. Mr. Bouck preached the gospel for some years, and is still active in Christian work.

New Castle Girls Enjoy Trip In Air

First Aeroplane Ride Gives Local Girl Thrill Of A Life Time

Riding in an aeroplane may be "old stuff" to some, but to a few residents of this city, including Miss Edna L. Ridley of Edison avenue and Miss Virginia Recher of Garfield avenue, and Miss Alice Thomson of Euclid avenue, a ride in a aeroplane meant the thrill of a lifetime, and a thrill it was when the trio of local girls enjoyed their trip in the air Monday.

The trip in the air was made at the Ellwood City airport and the girls were unanimous in their opinion that it was simply "wonderful". The trip was of 15 minutes duration and was enjoyed immensely. Due to a rather heavy wind yesterday, flying was somewhat dangerous, but the pilot encountered no difficulty either in taking off or landing at the field.

The girls were accompanied by Bob Wallis and Earl Lovell of St. Petersburg and Johnny Kraft of New Castle.

Governor Smith Plans To Speak In Pennsylvania

Friends Believe Governor Has Chance In Keystone State

By RAYMOND L. BORST
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 4.—While it may seem almost incredible to Republican leaders, Gov. Al Smith has high hope of carrying Pennsylvania in the coming presidential election, his close friends revealed today.

So confident is the Democratic nominee that he has at least an even chance of winning Pennsylvania's 38 electoral votes that he is planning to deliver two and possibly three of the major speeches of his campaign in that state.

Shuns California.

Unless he changes his mind at the last minute, the governor will not include California in his campaign itinerary, although he is being strongly urged to go to the Pacific Coast by National Chairman John J. Raskob. Smith is said to have decided to leave Albany a week from Sunday on his first trip into the west, but it is not expected his itinerary will be announced for several days. It is barely possible that he may make his first major campaign speech in Omaha on Tuesday, September 18.

The governor will meet with members of his cabinet this week so that he can get the state's business in shape for the campaign. He also plans to get the executive budget under way before he begins his tour.

The nominee spent a quiet week-end and holiday at the executive mansion with William F. Kenny, millionaire New York contractor as his only guest. In between the showers he took a couple of short automobile rides.

Unidentified Man Burns To Death As Truck Takes Fire

Man Riding On Truck, Wrecked On Steep Hill, Is Burned To Death

(International News Service)

KANE, Pa., Sept. 8.—State highway patrolmen today attempted to identify the body of a man burned to death when an Ohio moving van turned over on Denton Hill near Coudersport during the night.

The man who was riding in the truck, was pinned in the driver's cab when the truck turned over after the brakes burned out while descending the hill. The driver and helper on the truck leaped to safety.

The victim's foot became caught in the cab and the others were unable to free him after the gasoline tank exploded and turned the van into a flaming funeral pyre. The man was about 25, six feet tall and slender.

AMERICAN WIFE OF FORMER MAHARAJAH REPORTED TO BE ILL

at the castle were fruitless. One report was that the ex-Maharajah had left for Paris, but whether he was accompanied by his bride was not known.

The ranee was described as being "pale and listless' and taking little interest in things around her. Friends of the Indian Prince, however, declared that reports of illness were untrue. They admitted that the Indian princess was exhaused by the long journey from India to France but that, since their arrival in France and Switzerland she had regained her normal health.

Friends of the former Maharajah said he was not worrying over the suit brought against him at Bombay by a Hindoo woman who claimed she and her daughter were imprisoned when they refused to become his mistresses. The mother is suing for damages for false imprisonment and misappropriation of property, chiefly jewels.

NEW CASTLE PLANE MAKES NOTABLE RECORD IN RACE

fliers from New Castle made a mistake that cost them five minutes of their 30-minute rest period. Instead of landing as soon as possible, they circled the field several times to give their friends a chance to see the plane in flight. At 11:08 they came down.

As Pilot Merritt and his two passengers, Roy Bradford, president of the New Castle Aircraft Corporation, and Monroe Epstein, Pittsburgh millionaire, stepped from the cabin they were given a warm reception by the New Castle delegation.

Flying Conditions Bad

Merritt told the International News Service: "Flying conditions were rotten and we had to fly blind most of the way."

"I tried to drop down to a low altitude," he said, "but there was too much fog, so we took the ship up to the 5,000-foot level and found our way to the field solely by instrument flying. Most of the time we couldn't see anything but fog.

"Flying over the mountains was hazardous. We couldn't even see the mountain tops most of the time, and had to trust to our instruments that we were high enough to avoid the peaks."

Leave for Columbus

While their friends crowded around them the fliers ate sandwiches and drank tea, then rested until 11:33, when they took off for Columbus, O., on the second leg. Flying conditions between here and Columbus were reported much better than on the first leg.

Among the deelgation on hand to greet the New Castle men were: Mrs. Roy Bradford, wife of Bradford; their two small children, Alice and David; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bradford; his sister, Mrs. Ford Fulkerson, and his brother, J. W. Bradford. Epstein's brother, Malcolm, also was there.

Merritt wore flying togs, but the others were dressed in street clothes.

PATTERSON DECLARES HE WIL NOT RESIGN AS COUNTY CHAIRMAN

the presidency. The attitude of the majority of the Lawrence county Democratic committee is said to be that of Mr. Patterson and in his attitude in the present situation he has the support of many of the Democratic leaders here.

Intends to Fight.

Mr. Patterson does not intend to remain passive in the matter. If the state chairman, John R. Collins, wishes to press the matter then there will be a contest, with Patterson and his friends standing squarely upon their rights to name their own officers and to conduct the county committee affairs as they see fit.

Under the ruling of State Chairman Collins, County Auditor William J. Eroe, Jr., is named head of the Democratic party in this county. Actually, Patterson is the chairman and refuses to be removed or to resign.

Patterson's Statement.

His formal statement follows:

With reference to the attempt of Democratic State Chairman Collins to remove me as county chairman of the Democratic party, as stated in your issue of September 6th, our state chairman has no such authority.

The Democratic county chairman is elected by the Democratic county committeemen, and the state chairman has no authority either to remove him or to appoint another person in his stead.

I had received no communication of any kind regarding the matter from Mr. Collins, and the first intimation I had of his intention was through the columns of the press, and we regard this action of Mr. Collins as an attempt to introduce the "boss system" of Tammany Hall into local politics.

I am, therefore, sending the following telegram to Chairman Collins:

The people of Lawrence county are capable of selecting their own officers, and having been selected as county chairman of the Democratic party, I will not tolerate the application of Tammany Hall methods to Lawrence county politics, and shall, therefore, continue to act as county chairman of the Democratic party.

Eroe Is In Dark.

County Auditor William J. Eroe, Jr., who was designated by Collins as the county chairman on the day the resignation of Patterson was asked, said today: "I know nothing of the action of Mr. Collins, save what I have read in the papers. I have received no word from him concerning it."

"I nominated Mr. Patterson for the position of county chairman, and if he intends to remain as county chairman I have no disposition to assist in overthrowing him, and of course would not act as county chairman while he remains at the helm."

PASTORS LEAVE NEXT TUESDAY FOR CONFERENCE

will be held in the Kingsley Methodist church.

New Bishop

Bishop Herbert Welsh the newly appointed bishop of the Pittsburgh Area will preside. Bishop Welsh spent twelve years as a missionary bishop at Soul, Corea. He received his appointment as bishop of the Pittsburgh Area just recently.

On Thursday the legal or chartered conference will be held. Dr. F. S. Neigh of Milton street, superintendent of the New Castle district is president of this conference and will preside.

It is believed that there will not be much change in the ministers of this city. The Croton Avenue M. E. church has been without a pastor since the death of Rev. T. W. English the latter part of June, and a permanent pastor will be named for the vacancy.

Local ministers who will attend the Conference include Dr. F. S. Neigh, Dr. H. C. Weaver, Dr. S. L. Maxwell, Rev. J. L. Stratton, Rev. J. L. Petrie, Rev. D. D. Sleppy and Dr. C. J. Baker.

TENNESSEE TOWN GIVEN HONOR BY HERBERT HOOVER

It marked the first free government on the American continent.

See Hoover Victory

Hoover continued to receive glowing reports of potential success. All visitors to his headquarters brought him bright reports. Nathan Frank, former Missouri congressman, was one who predicted Hoover was certain of victory.

Norman S. Dike, a New York supreme court justice, called at Republican headquarters and predicted another Hoover victory in New York state.

A victory in Maryland, another doubtful state, was predicted by a delegation, which visited Hoover.

There likewise was much activity in the women's division of Republican headquarters. Mrs. J. L. Hughes, National committeewoman from Washington predicted a Hoover victory.

Mrs. Frank N. Mann, of Huntington, W. Va., a former Democratic National committeewoman, visited headquarters and endorsed Hoover. She told of the formation of anti-Smith clubs in West Virigihia and predicted Hoover would carry that state.

The nominee remained at his desk this morning, working on the labor speech to be delivered at Newark, N. J., September 17. He hopes to get away for a few days' fishing next week to some point on Chesapeake Bay.

Several Fliers Forced Down

One Of Racers Wrecks Plane In Landing Near Washington

ANOTHER DOWN AT MARTINS FERRY

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 8.—Bewildered in the fog and running out of gas C. W. Holman, St. Paul, Minn., piloting a Laird biplane, attempted to make a landing on the A. B. Weaver farm, five miles southeast of Washington today and wrecked his plane so badly that it will be out of the race.

The machine turned over pinning Holman and his mechanic, Ralph Greer, in the machine, but neither was hurt. The machine struck the side of a hill while descending to level ground, knocked off the landing gear, smashed the propeller, shattered the rudder and damaged the left hand strut.

Holman winner of last year's race, left Greer in charge of the plane while he went to Bettis field in an automobile.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Sept. 8.—A large monoplane, believed to have gotten off its course in the heavy fog, hovered over Punxsutawney from 7:30 until 9:30 o'clock this morning, before the fog lifted enough to permit the plane to resume its journey. Persons who saw the plane flying low over the city, said it bore the number "200".

Martins Ferry, O., Sept. 8.—One of the planes entered in the class B trans-continental air races, is thought to have been the one which made a forced landing at Brookside, near here, shortly before noon on the hop from McKeesport to Columbus. The ship was only slightly damaged.

It is thought the pilot lost his way in a dense fog.

thedral there will be a typical New Castle banquet at which the principal spokesman will be U. S. District Judge Frederick P. Schoonmaker who will come here from Erie where he will conduct federal court during the week.

Judge Schoonmaker will be followed by Strickland Gilliland, noted humorist, who has only recently returned from a tour of Europe. Gilliland lectured here and he is considered one of the best in the United States.

Thursday Session.

Thursday morning will be devoted to a discussion of miscellaneous subjects, pertinent to city affairs. Some of the subjects will be theoretical and it will be for the purpose of developing new ideas.

They will relate to things which have been tried out in other states but not yet in Pennsylvania, for instance, employes retirement and pensions, the metropolitan plan of city charter by which the entire county would be "in the city."

This latter phase will be discussed by prominent men from different cities in Ohio who are well versed with the metropolitan plan. Proportional representation, effective in Cincinnati and Cleveland will also be discussed.

The convention will come to a close with a full discussion by the various delegates of the experience they have had with city-county buildings as this is one subject, it might be said, is rather important to the city of New Castle at this time.

The full program for the convention has not yet been arranged but will be announced formally next week. In the meantime plans for the delegates are going forward, badges will be sold and the public will be able to attend the banquet.

SLIGHT ACCIDENT.

A. G. Marshall, 425 East Reynolds street, reported to the police today that he was driving north on Croton avenue at the intersection of East Washington street and after making the safety stop, allowing two cars to pass, started his machine, which was struck and damaged by a truck, the license number of which he did not secure.

Local Bank Buys $109,000 Issue Of Mahoning Bonds

Proceeds Of Sale To Be Used In Erecting Hillsville Consolidated School

Total bond issue of $109,000 issued by Mahoning township for school purposes was sold last night to the People's Savings and Trust company of this city at a premium of $175.

The bonds bear 4 1-2 per cent interest, the issue being voted for the purpose of erecting a new consolidated school building in Mahoning township. The school board had hoped to get a larger premium but owing to the present condition of the money market there were few bidders.

Work on the erection of the new school building has already been started by Contractor McGregor. The excavating is under way and on next Monday workmen will start to drive piling. The piling is necessary owing to the fact that the building is to be located on ground from which the limestone has been taken and the earth filled in.

Contractor McGregor stated last night that he expected to be laying brick within two weeks.

The school board will meet again on Monday night according to County Superintendent J. C. Syling for the purpose of selecting the kind of brick to be used in the building.

Six Are Killed, Woman Is Dying And Eighth Victim Is In Critical State

(International News Service)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 10.—Three women and three men are dead, another woman is dying and an eighth victim is in a critical condition as a result of two grade crossing accidents late yesterday.

One crash occurred in Milwaukee and the second near Kenosha. Three persons, returning from a fishing trip in northern Wisconsin, were killed when their car sped in front of a Milwaukee interurban train.

The Kenosha tragedy climaxed an evening of dancing enjoyed by two couples who were soon to have been married. Their automobile struck a Northwestern passenger train near the Kenosha city limits.

Pa Newc noticed last evening that some of the trees are already appearing with their fall look as the leaves have turned from the bright and brilliant hues of green to their autumn reddish. Pa Newc has seen but one tree like this and wonders if it is an early bird or if fall is really here.

New Castle and airplanes are almost synonymous anymore. Most any day you can see one or two locally owned planes circling over the city like huge eagles. With three airports and more local planes than that New Castle is not at all behind in aerial development.

It won't be long. Pa Newc saw several men with top coats on last evening and the night before, which he believes was slightly cooler, brought out at least one man with an overcoat. When you see this you know that summer has gone.

Hale vs. Holmes

Senator Frederick Hale, chairman of the senate naval committee, and tenth ranking member of the senate in point of continuous service, is seeking his third term. His Democratic opponent is Herber E. Holmes of Lewiston. A bitter primary fight between Hale and Governor Ralph O. Brewster for the senatorial nomination left some ugly scars on the Republican state organization, but Brewster's appearance to preside at a huge Republican rally here last week.

Following a hurried visit to the state by National Chairman Hubert Work, was hailed as a symbol of the buried hatchet, Senator Charles Curtis, Republican vice-presidential nominee and Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, another wheelhorse of the G. O. P., have campaigned in the state for the Republican ticket within the last week. State Chairman Daniel E. Field today predicted a majority of 50,000 for the Republican gubernatorial nominee. Governor Brewster's majority in 1924 was but 36,000.

See G. O. P. Landslide

William Tudor Gardiner, Republican gubernatorial nominee, has waged his fight solely upon the state platform, which closely follows the national platform on the vital issues of the tariff, prosperity, waterways, and taxation.

Edward C. Moran, Jr., his Democratic opponent, has waged an uphill fight almost exclusively on the issue of exporting the surplus water-power electricity beyond the Maine borders. Moran's repeated challenges to Gardiner to debate the water-power issue have been neglected, the Republican nominee characterizing the challenge as "a trumped-up" issue.

Republicans count upon Gardiner's tremendous personal popularity to roll up a tidal wave of votes for the Republican ticket.

Warns Against Obstruction Of Street Railway

Police Chief Says That Offenders Will Be Fined Heavily

BOYS SHOULD NOT STEAL TROLLEY RIDES

Boys who are in the habit of placing obstructions on the street car tracks and holding up traffic by pulling the trolley off the wires will have to watch themselves in the future, is the statement made this morning by Chief of Police C. C. Horner, who announces that many of these boys, particularly those on the East Side, are known.

If these boys repeat the offense, states Chief Horner, they will be brought to the police station, where a stiff fine will be imposed.

"Tuesday evening traffic on East Washington street was held up for some time because a group persisted in placing boxes on the tracks. When the motorman would get out to remove the boxes, then boys would pull the trolley off the wire, causing another delay.

"This is a penitentiary offense," commented the chief, "and if it is continued the offenders will be punished. Who knows but that some such little thing might be the cause of a street car wreck in which many will lose their lives?"

Another practice which the chief warns against is that of boys on bicycles hanging onto the rear end of a street car when it is going up a hill. This, he states, will have to be stopped, else offenders will be brought to the police station and fined.

Police Captain Called In Probe Of Rum Traffic

Colonel Wynne, Dry Administrator, Confers With Monaghan

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—Colonel Samuel O. Wynne, prohibition administrator for eastern Pennsylvania, conferred with District Attorney John Monaghan again today as the grand jury resumed its investigation of underworld gang rule.

Colonel Wynne informed newspapermen following the conference that he had uncovered a huge plot of bootleggers to smuggle pure grain alcohol from Porto Rico to New York and thence to Philadelphia and had so informed Monaghan. The alcohol was discovered in transit and seized, Wynne said. The new move, he asserted, was the direct result of the prosecutor's work in drying up the city.

Police Captain William G. Wuest was the first witness to go before the jury today.

Mike Paul Case Is Before Court

Charge Is Keeping Bawdy House —Paul Charges Effort To Settle

Mike Paul of Pennsylvania avenue was placed on trial before Judge Hildebrand in court this morning on a charge of keeping a bawdy house. It is claimed that Paul, who is unmarried, had harbored girls at his home. Paul denied the charge. On the night of the arrest he claimed that a young woman relative had called up from Cascade Park and asked if she and a girl friend could stay all night, as they were out of money. He said he did not know that anybody was to accompany them. Later the girls, another man and Paul were arrested and the charge of keeping a bawdy house was made against Paul.

In his testimony Paul claimed that he had been told at the office of Alderman Marshall by Marshall and Constable James Ellison that the case could be settled for $43. Alderman Marshall, Constable Ellison and several other officers were called, who denied that anything was said about a settlement of the case at the alderman's office. The case is still on trial.

Governor Smith Ready To Battle For Middle-West

Discounts Republican Claims that Mid-West States Are All G. O. P.

(International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 12.—The claim so persistently advanced by Republican spokesmen at Washington that Governor Smith will not carry a single western agricultural state in November is receiving scant and scornful attention from the Democratic nominee and his advisers here.

For one thing, they don't believe it. For another they are now up to their eyes in plans for a spectacular assault on this same citadel of claimed Republican strength and whether it is real, assumed, or merely hopeful there is an atmosphere of considerable confidence discernable about Albany headquarters.

Some of this confidence undoubtedly has been engendered by prominent western Democrats like Ex-Senator Gilbert Hitchcock dropping into Albany for personal conference with the governor, without exception, these visitors have assured Governor Smith that the farm revolt against the Republican administration is not abating, and that if he takes a "real progressive message" into the grain belt every state becomes a battle ground, irrespective of normal Republican tinges.

He has asked friends to make an investigation of the effect of the amendment and upon this report his stand will be decided.

It is not his policy to advocate or reject a measure until he has studied it from all angles, he advised the delegation.

Ten Year Sentence Given Man Found Guilty Of Murder

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 12.—Found guilty of murder in the second degree in connection with the death of Arthur White, William Brinkman of this city, was sentenced by Judge Charles I. Landis to serve from ten to 20 years in Eastern penitentiary.

The case was given to the jury late yesterday and the verdict was returned after almost five hours of deliberation.

Brinkman, who testified that White was accidentally killed during a mock fight on April 6, received the sentence without emotion. He was returned to the county prison where he will remain until taken to the penitentiary. Defense attorneys indicated that no appeal would be made.

About Nothing In Particular

George Is Arrested Because He Is Happy; Later Is Released

"And now they make us arrest a man because he is happy," was Officer Thomas Lynch's musing comment as he was bringing George, of Rose Point to the police station for an examination.

A few minutes before, George was going up Washington street, happy. He was so happy that he could hardly contain himself. For he was going home to Rose Point after spending the day in New Castle, with a mess of chitterlings tucked in under his belt. A week's pay was in his pocket. He had every right to be happy.

But when he reached the East Washington street bridge he could contain himself no longer. So George of Rose Point burst into song. His song belied his condition, for he sang the old negro slaver, "Nobody Knows the Troubles I've Seen."

It was then that people began to report him to the police, and it was shortly afterward that Detective Logan and Officer Lynch started to look for George. They got him at the Court street intersection.

At the police station he was questioned. Police thought that perhaps he might be slightly insane. George was sane. So he was released, and thus ends the tale of the man who was arrested because he was happy.

No Confirmation Of Report Mackays Are Reconciled

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Reports that Clarence H. Mackay, the Postal Telegraph millionaire, and his daughter, Ellin Mackay Berlin, had become reconciled were in circulation today but no confirmation could be obtained. Father and daughter became estranged three years ago when the carefully reared Ellin married Irving Berlin, the famous Broadway song writer, who was of a different religious faith.

A rumor that a dramatic reconciliation took place beside the bier of Mackay's dead mother, Mrs. Louise Hungerford Mackay, was spiked as an unfounded story. The report had it that Mackay had impressed a kiss of forgiveness upon his estranged daughter's lips at the bier of his mother. It was said that it was the death-bed wish of Mackay's mother that he forgive his daughter.

Tomorrow, however, Mrs. Mackay will be buried in Roslyn, L. I., and both father and daughter will attend the funeral. It is not unlikely that Ellin will be on the arm of her father when they enter St. Mary's Roman Catholic church at Roslyn behind the casket of Mrs. Mackay.

Mrs. Mackay died a few days ago of heart disease, at the age of eighty-five. Ellin, who expects to become a mother again, was at her grandmother's death bed, according to well authenticated reports. Since that visit she has remained in her own mansion and her father has not visited her.

Close friends of the Mackays could not answer the question of whether Berlin would accompany his wife to the funeral. Mackay has been in no way in communication with his son-in-law since he married his daughter.

Anderson Says He Killed Allen In Self-Defense

Alleges Allen Had A Knife And Had Slashed Him In Back During Trouble

CASE GOES TO JURY THIS AFTERNOON

Self defense was the plea of Eugene Anderson today when called to the witness stand in the case in which he is charged with the murder of Dile Allen at New Castle Junction on trial in the Lawrence county court. Anderson claimed that he had stabbed Allen when he thought that his own life was in danger.

He claimed that on the night of the tragedy he had gone into the bunk house occupied by Allen and that they got into an argument. He claimed that during the trouble, Allen had drawn a knife. Anderson said that he had seized a poker and knocked the knife from Allen's hand. He said that Allen secured another knife and cut him on the back. Anderson claims that it was then that he seized a knife and stabbed Allen. According to Anderson the stabbing took place in the bunk house. Some of the other witnesses had testified that it was when Anderson had called Allen out of the bunkhouse that he was stabbed.

Testimony closed this forenoon and the case was argued by Attorney Edwin K. Logan for the defense and District J. Elder Bryan for the commonwealth.

When court convened this afternoon Judge Chambers took up his charge to the jury.

Confession Of Doctor Is Blow To His Defense

Signed Confession Of Doctor Hoffman Is Introduced In Murder Trial Today

DETECTIVE IS STAR WITNESS

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 12.—The signed confession said to have been made by Dr. H. H. Hoffman of Ashley, who is charged with killing his wife with a hammer on July 22, was introduced by the prosecution today at the trial of Hoffman before Judge B. R. Jones.

One of the state witnesses today was County Detective John Dempsey, who related the incidents leading up to the brutal slaying. Dempsey testified that Dr. Hoffman, during the night of the murder, went to the bathroom where he smoked a cigarette.

The detective also testified that the physician found the hammer in the bathroom and then went to bed with his wife. While in bed, Dr. Hoffman, according to Dempsey, said he later hit his wife with a hammer and continued to crush her head until she fell.

After this, the detective testified, Dr. Hoffman went to another part of the home and found a pair of shoes which he is said to have padded in his wife blood and made footprints in the rooms. The shoes and hammer were later burned in the furnace, Dempsey said.

During this testimony Dr. Hoffman occupied a chair beside Attorney William A. O'Connor, who is assisting Attorney John H. Dando for the defendant. The physician appeared to be little concerned about the proceedings at times, occasionally glancing toward the witness stand.

The admission of the reported confession into the records was regarded by the district attorney's office as a blow to the defense.

Tyrrell Killed To Protect Self, Defense Contends

State Rests Case Against Attorney Accused Of Premeditated Murder

FAIL TO MENTION INSANITY TESTS

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 12.—Fear of the man who terrorized him day and night was the reason Fayette J. Tyrrell, churchman, Sunday school superintendent and Pittsburgh attorney, murdered Philip F. Clark, in the aisle of the First Christian church of Munhall on last May 13, Attorney Thomas Hoffman, of defense counsel, told the jury of four women and eight men who will decide Tyrrell's fate, in criminal court today.

Addressing the jury after Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty has closed the presentation of the commonwealth's case, Hoffman pictured Tyrrell as a man who was tortured with fear of his life because he had heard a report that Clark threatened Tyrrell would "never leave the church alive."

Not once in Hoffman's address to the jury, did he give any indication that the defense would base its plea for Tyrrell's life on insanity.

State Rests Case

Following the testimony of several pupils in the Sunday school and witnesses of the slaying, the State rested its case shortly before noon. The Sunday school pupils described the calmness with which Tyrrell walked down the church aisle, fired the fatal shot into Clark and departed from the church.
